BIG CROWD STORMS COURT AT HEARING OF YOUNG SPENCER

SPRINGFIELD, April 15.—More than 1,000 people, many of whom were women, were unable to crowd into the Police Court here to-day when Bertram G. Spencer, the confessed murderer and masked robber, was arraigned for a hearing. There was almost a riot as the crowd surged about the entrance to the court house.

Spencer waived examination and was held without bail for the action of the grand jury. It is believed that alienists who will be called upon to examine the strange prisoner may find that he is irresponsible.

No Lawyer for Defence.

In court Spencer was not represented by counsel. No lawyer has been found who will take the case. So severely has he been denounced by the citizens of Springfield that attorneys have shunned him, and he will probably go unrepresented legally until the court appoints a man to look after him in that capacity.

The young man was driven to court in a patrol wagon. So bitter was the feeling against Spencer that the police feared that a demonstration might be made against him, but nothing of the kind happened. He was taken into the detention room and kept there until the other cases were disposed of. Then he was arraigned.

District Attorney Stephen S. Taft announced that Spencer would waive examination. The prisoner looked well. He stood with his head up and there was not a sign of remorse on his face. The hang-dog look that he had when he was arraigned before had disappeared.

Women Watch Prisoner.

The women craned their heads forward to get a look at the cool prisoner. They made whispered remarks at his composure. The hearing lasted only a few minutes, after which Spencer was taken back to the detention room.

While the court quickly cleared the crowd hung about the building for nearly an hour, waiting for the police to take the prisoner out, but they thought it better to let him remain in the detention room until the crowd had dispersed. When this was done he was taken back to the jail.

Miss Harriet P. Dow, who was shot in the head and dangerously wounded at the time Spencer murdered Miss Martha B. Blackstone, was brought from the hospital last night to her home. Her story of the tragedy is the same as has been related by her mother and sister.

None of Spencer's relatives was in court. The usual reaction has set in, and some of the people of the city are beginning to express pity for the prisoner, arguing that he must have been crazed when he committed the crimes that terrorized Springfield.

CHINESE DESTROY MISSIONS

PEKIN, April 15.—The anti-foreign riots at Chang Sa and vicinity are growing in violence. The British consulate was destroyed to-day and all foreigners were driven to take refuge aboard a steamer. The missions bore the brunt of the attack, three mission stations besides that of the English Wesleyan China Inland mission, the first attacked, have been destroyed.

The disorder is spreading throughout the entire province of Hu-Nan and it is feared that every foreigner in the district will be forced to flee before protection arrives. A wholesale campaign of pillage has been started by the frenzied natives. Although it has been ascertained definitely that the trouble was caused by a corner in rice negotiated by native officers, the foreigners have borne the burden of the natives' anger.

To-day's disorder started with an attack on the Governor's office. The mob charged the office, looting it, and after wrecking what was left fired the debris. The office was totally destroyed.

Word of danger had spread to the foreign quarter and the Caucasians fled with all possible haste to the waterfront, where they embarked on the vessel that gave them refuge.

The arrival of the two British gunboats dispatched to the scene when the first information of danger and violence was received is expected to end the trouble. But if they are delayed the whole province may rise.

300 FALL IN BATTLE NEAR BLUEFIELDS

BLUEFIELDS, April 15.—Three hundred soldiers fell in a battle between the Madriz and Estrada forces between Managua and Acoyapa yesterday, according to couriers who arrived here to-day.

These couriers declare that the government casualties exceed those of the insurgents. The offensive has been assumed by Estrada's army, according to the story they bring, while the Madriz army has withdrawn to a supporting line beyond Acoyapa.

The Americans sent here from New Orleans are said to have infused new life into the insurgent army and Estrada believes that with their help and of others who are coming he will be able to lead a successful expedition against the capital of Madriz.

ACCUSED OF USING MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud, Frank H. Newton, thirty-five, of Cambridge, was arrested to-day by United States marshals at his place of business, No. 170 Summer street. He was later arraigned before Commissioner Hayes and held in $300 for a hearing to-morrow. The government officials allege that Newton advertised in papers outside of Massachusetts and in magazines to send twelve yards of silk for $1. The officials say that upon receipt of the money Newton sent twelve yards of silk braid, instead of silk cloth. Newton is married.

RACING SEASON OPENS AT AQUEDUCT TRACK

By ED CURLEY.

The big show starts moving this afternoon. Down at Aqueduct the thoroughbreds that have been taking things easy all Winter and the bangtails that have been chasing one another around at the Winter tracks will meet here once more and the metropolitan racing season will be on its way.

How it will wind up is a matter of uncertainty. Just now the fact remains that we will be able to yell our heads off if our choice is out in front winging. That is enough solace. It was a dreary wait for the stay-at-homes who were unable to hike to the Winter courses. And if the weather man is kind this afternoon then you may expect to run into a banner crowd at Aqueduct.

The real event of the day is the Carter Handicap. This is a seven-furlong sprint for three-year-olds and upward. One glance at the possible starters will convince the most skeptical that the Carter should be an interesting struggle from the swish of the webbing to the finish line. Seventeen of the greatest handicap runners are entered in the Carter. Many of them were in action at Jacksonville, some galloped around at Juarez, and the others spent the Winter killing time.

Atkin in Superb Form.

Of the large bunch of entries Jack Atkin stands out as an almost certain winner. The big son of Sain came here a few days ago in superb shape. As an appetizer for the Carter, Jack Atkin ran a few remarkable races at Jacksonville. His last appearance was in the St. John's Handicap, when he picked up 142 pounds and ran the mile in 1:39 1-5. Atkin only won by a neck, but he gave away tons of weight.

A glance over the glowing record of the Schrieber colt shows that he is nothing less than a wonder. The 135-pound burden this afternoon will not worry him, as he has been carrying heavy packages for the last few years. The outstanding thing in his favor is that he is better at seven furlongs than almost any other distance. There are very few horses that can take any liberties with this big brown colt, and in this field it is hard to find one that can be placed on a level with Atkin despite the weight riggings.

Yesterday morning Trainer Powers sent Atkin out for a little gallop. With a heavy boy in the saddle this great runner just galloped five furlongs in 1:02. He had his mouth wide open all through the dash, and at the finish was practically walking. Dave Nicol will handle Atkin, and this veteran will not let any of his rivals try to slip anything over, for he is a past master at that kind of work.

For the second position, Prince Ahmed has the call. The Bedwell color bearer is a pretty tough proposition, and possesses a marvelous turn of speed. His disadvantage is a lack of early speed. The long stretch will help him wonderfully and enable the Prince to overhaul some of the early sprinters.

Nealon May Prove Surprise.

Alfred Noble may be the one that will keep the others out of third place. This big, strapping runner, has been burning the track at Gravesend, and if he can stand the terrific pace he will be the horse that will make a determined bid for the prize. Glorio, the wonder of the Mexican track, will have a chance to show his speed. He is pretty well anchored with 122 pounds in a field of this class. Nealon, who has a Suburban to his credit, will trot to the post with Eddie Dugan in the saddle. Nealon may surprise the talent, but he is far from sound.

The railbirds at Belmont Park cannot see anything but Magazine. The Carman plater is primed up for a killing and is expected to put up a great race. There are tips galore on the remainder of the contestants. If you would listen to the praises sounded by the admirers of all the starters there would be nothing less than a dead heat. It's the old standby, the one that has delivered the goods many times, that counts in a struggle of this order. This means that it is impossible to look further than Jack Atkin as the one that will stand within the winner's circle after the finish of the Carter.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, April 15.—There was none of the glamor of the opening day to be seen at the old yard this afternoon, but a goodly number of raving maniacs were present to turn things upside down in case the Doves made another Garrison finish against the Doves.

As for the players, they settled right down to business, knowing full well that there is a long and tough season ahead of them. The day was fair and a trifle cooler than yesterday, but the fans had no kick coming. Good enough weather for this time of year.

Johnny McGraw, the little leader of the Giants, had not quite recovered from his grouch, occasioned by the eleventh hour defeat of his pets, when he led his team on the field this afternoon. He gingered his men up in practice and called on the gods of fate to stay with him.

Fred Lake was complacent before the battle. He was mightily pleased over the outcome of the opener and predicted that his team would surprise not a few of the critics before the season was half finished.

Both clubs warmed up a pair of pitchers and didn't make their final selection until they had to.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS, New York, April 15.—The Speed Boys and the Broadway Boys renewed hostilities this afternoon. The tie game of yesterday will not be played off until the Bostons come here on the next trip. But the players of the teams considered to-day's game a continuation of the opening battle, and the pitchers who worked yesterday were willing to go at it again. But the managers said "Nay, nay," and warmed up other celebrated box artists for the fray.

Manager Donovan had Charlie Smith, the former Washington pitcher, and Charlie Hall loosening up their salary wings, while Manager Stallings of the Highlanders watched the preliminary motions of Pitchers Warhop and Quinn. The Red Sox feared neither much.

The crowd was, of course, nowhere near in numbers the tremendous throng that broke the attendance record of the park yesterday, but there was a bigger gathering than was expected. That tie game brought many of the fans to the grounds.

"Now that the opening scramble is over," said Manager Donovan, "our team will go forward steadily. I expect the boys to get a good start in the pennant race."

HAVOC CAUSED IN CENTRAL AMERICA BY EARTH SHOCKS

Continuous Vibrations Cause Terror Among People of Costa Rica—Whole Villages Swallowed Up in Earth Chasms.

PORT LIMON, Costa Rica, April 15.—The loss of life from the earthquakes which began yesterday and are continuing throughout Costa Rica to-day will be enormous. Here and at San Jose, the capital, the property loss already is in the millions.

Several persons have been killed in the outskirts of San Jose, but it is in the country to the north and west of the capital that the gratest number of deaths has occurred.

A telegram from Cartago says hundreds have perished there and in the other towns of the province. In the mountain towns west of San Jose the earth is said to have yawned and engulfed scores of houses with their occupants. Rescuing parties are on their way to the interior from San Jose.

Telegraph lines between Port Limon, San Jose and Cartago are still working. The line between Cartago and the coast is rapidly failing. All other lines throughout the republic are prostrated. Business is paralyzed throughout Costa Rica.

TERRIBLE DEATH LIST IS REPORTED

COLON, April 15.—Many towns have been demolished, loss of life is heavy and all Central America has been shaken by earthquakes of almost unprecedented violence, according to the latest reports received here to-day.

It is believed that hundreds have been killed in the interior of Costa Rica which has borne the brunt of the disaster. The shocks continued to-day. The extent of the property damage can only be surmised but the advices already in hand give assurance that it will be much heavier than the $1,000,000 first estimated.

It is believed that the Sierra de Tileran range along the west coast of Costa Rica is the centre of the disturbance and that a fault line, or crack in the earth's surface, has been enlarged or its nature changed.

Dispatches from San Jose, the capital of Costa Rica, say that thousands of persons refuse to return to their homes and camps have been thrown up in the open country about the city. Panic is widespread.

Meagre reports have been received from the outlying districts of the country and several villages are reported to have been annihilated.

The towns of Cartago, Liberia, Palada and San Ramon are reported to have suffered severely.

Although panic reigns in the capital, efforts to send out relief expeditions were undertaken on the receipt of the first news that the shocks, which for thirty-six hours were almost constant, affected the entire country.

The disorder in Costa Rica has been increased by the government order declaring a series of legal holidays, suspending all business. All trading is deadlocked. The organization of a system of relief for the distribution of food and medical supplies has been begun. American residents are offering their aid.

Steps were taken to-day for an appeal to the world for aid.

ROOSEVELT DENIES HE IS A CANDIDATE

VIENNA, April 15.—Theodore Roosevelt to-day denied emphatically the report published in the United States that he had given Gifford Pinchot permission to use his name in connection with a race for the presidency three years from now.

The former President was indignant at the report. He declared that his promise not to discuss American politics while in Europe was just as binding now as it was when he returned from Africa. He said that he had received Mr. Pinchot as he would any other friend, his only regret being that he could not see Senator Root or some one equally reliable who might have given him the other side of the conservation controversy.

"I wish Senator Root had come to Europe," said Mr. Roosevelt this afternoon when he first began to realize the enormous importance that a large part of the American press attached to his conference with Pinchot.

Received by Emperor.

The first result of the story that Mr. Roosevelt would again run for President was the shutting out from all further favors of the correspondent who sent it to America.

This afternoon Colonel Roosevelt was received by Emperor Franz Josef.

The meeting between the oldest sovereign of Europe and the man who was the youngest President of the United States when he became chief executive of his nation was extremely picturesque.

For some time the Emperor and Mr. Roosevelt chatted informally after first observances were concluded. The Emperor asked many questions concerning Mr. Roosevelt's hunting trip and also exhibited great interest in American affairs. Mr. Roosevelt entered the palace at 2 o'clock and the audience lasted for more than an hour. He shook hands with the aged monarch on parting.

Stays Only Forty-eight Hours.

Mr. Roosevelt will stay here only forty-eight hours. His arrival was made the occasion for a great demonstration.

Baron Hengelmuller, Austrian Ambassador to the United States, who is now here on leave of absence, had been delegated to meet Mr. Roosevelt on the frontier. At the station here there was a crowd of dignitaries, including Herr von Muller, principal secretary of the foreign office, present as representative of the government; municipal officers and Colonel Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis, the new ambassador from the United States.

At the depot was a court landau for the nation's guests. In this Mr. Roosevelt was taken, escorted by flashing, clattering troopers, and with his route lined with cheering crowds and heavy forces of police, to the Hotel Kranz, where a large suite had been engaged.

Outside the hotel a large crowd gathered, including several hundred Americans, all of whom appeared to be supplied with flags of their native land. There was a large proportion of Austrians, however. Although this, the second European country to greet Roosevelt, is strongly Catholic, the enthusiasm of the populace appears to have been undiminished by the recent dispute between Mr. Roosevelt and the Vatican.

ROOSEVELT WILL RUN AGAIN, SAYS WESTERN EDITOR

NEW YORK, April 15.—On the last lap of a 21,000-mile trip as a message bearer to Colonel Roosevelt, F. G. Bonfils, proprietor of the Denver Post and the Kansas City Post, banker, real estate man and street railroad owner, to-day stepped ashore from the Lusitania with this message to the American people:

"If the people want Roosevelt for President again they will get him."

The message does not come from the lips of the Colonel now in triumphal procession through Europe, and Mr. Bonfils wants that distinctly understood. "But the truth of this statement is beyond question to my mind," he said to a reporter.

"I was sent clear from Denver to Khartoum to talk with him and to present him the invitations of the Chamber of Commerce of the great Western cities, and after close personal contact with the members of his party I feel safe in saying that not a single man in that party doubts that Roosevelt is now ready to accept the call of the people."

TWELVE DEATHS NOW THE TOTAL IN POISON WHISKEY MYSTERY

WESTERLY, R. I., April 15.—The startling news that the whiskey that is supposed to have been the cause of twelve deaths in and around this town within the last week contained 73 per cent. of wood alcohol, which is a deadly poison, has aroused the citizens and the authorities to aggressive action.

It was believed that some wood alcohol would be found in the poisonous liquor, but that it should practically all be of that fatal ingredient came as a distinct surprise. Not only are the local authorities at work to find the guilty parties, but word was received here to-day that Executive Secretary John E. Goff, of the State Pure Food Commission, would take the matter up immediately.

Failed to Take Warning.

The three latest deaths occurred within the past twenty-four hours. Proof is thus afforded that consumers of the mixture have not taken warning from the fate which befell the first victims, a week ago.

The police authorities are trying hard to locate the source of the deadly concoction, but as yet have not succeeded. Their theory is that the "whiskey" is made in some kitchen bar-room and is there treated with drugs, burnt sugar, prune juice or other ingredients to make it pleasant to the taste.

Against this theory is the sworn statements of Bernard McCormick and Mrs. Charles R. Hood. These statements were made and sworn to before Police Chief Bransfield, and each locates the source of the fatal decoction at a Westerly drug store.

McCormick swore that he purchased the whiskey of which one draught, the first of an intoxicant he had ever taken, caused the death of Edward Doherty, a young man who had been married only six months. The medical examiner found that wood alcohol was the poison which killed Doherty.

Mrs. Charles R. Hood, whose husband died of wood alcohol poisoning, swore that Henry Larrow, also a victim to the poison, told her before he died that he bought at the drug store named by McCormick the "whiskey" which he and her husband drank.

Besides securing this sworn testimony, which will be presented at a special session of the Superior Court next Monday, the police are searching for evidence of "moonshining." In the belief that the wood alcohol was ignorantly used as the basis of a mixture to be sold as whiskey, Chief Bransfield has made several raids in the Italian quarter. The raids proved fruitless, for, while large quantities of intoxicants were seized, no evidence of "moonshining" or home manufacture was found.

Seven Witnesses Summoned.

Seven witnesses, whose testimony, it is believed, will have an important bearing on the solution of the mystery covering the source of the "whiskey," have been summoned to appear in court on Monday. It is intended to make the examination thorough and to not only put a stop to the traffic in the poisonous intoxicants, but to bring to justice those responsible for the deaths which have occurred.

John McAvoy of Westerly, and Rosario Tatti of Pawcatuck, are the two latest victims of the poison.

McAvoy, who was the father of Mrs. Albert Tucker, one of its first victims, took a couple of drinks of whiskey before retiring. He was then in the best of health. When he awoke he was ill, and died in intense pain in a few hours. An autopsy on his body will be made to ascertain if the poison was wood alcohol.

In the case of Tatti the cause of death is not so certain, but the belief that he took poisoned whiskey is so strong that an autopsy will be resorted to.

WALKER LEADS NOMINATIONS BILL FIGHT

Speaker Walker to-day left the chair to lead the fight for his Direct Nominations bill on the floor of the House of Representatives. The Speaker's bill provides for a referendum to the people in each representative and senatorial district in the State on the question of whether or not the Senator or Represenative from that district shall be elected by direct nominations. A petition signed by ten per cent. of the voters of any district to be cast at the preceding election for Governor is necessary to obtain a referendum under the provisions of the bill.

Speaker Walker said:

The bill before you is not a direct nomination bill and is not intended to be. It is simply a bill to permit the voters of each district to have direct nominations if they so vote. The bill provides that, if ten per cent. of the vote for Governor in any district so petitions, the question shall be put upon the ballot in such district in the simplest form, viz: Do you wish direct nominations in this district? Yes or No. It also provides that at any time after one year the question may by a like petition be put upon the ballot: Do you wish to continue the system of direct nominations? Yes or No. Nothing could be more simple or more fair.

"The question may properly be asked, Why should the voters in each district rather than the Legislature decide this question? The answer is simple and obvious. Because the Legislature has already provided that one hundred and fifty members of the House and thirteen members of the Senate shall be so nominated. Consequently, the real question before the Legislature is no longer one of principle or one of policy, but simply a question as to whether the voters in any particular district wish direct nominations or not. This being the case, who cannot see that the obvious and fair way to answer that question is to ask the voters of the district themselves to vote upon the question?

"I appeal in this matter to the wisdom and common sense of every member. Many special bills for direct nominations in this or that district will be presented to the Legislature each year if this bill is not passed. Is not the method proposed in this bill the best and the fairest way to settle the question? It seems to me that there can be but one answer to that question.

TEACHERS' PAY TOO SMALL, SAYS MAYOR

The pay of the public school teachers of Boston was termed disgracefully small by Mayor Fitzgerald, at a meeting of the Elementary Teachers' Club at Faneuil Hall. He explained, however, that it was difficult to increase the amounts paid, because of the rapidly growing expenses of the schools. He said that it was his wish that the teachers be well paid if it could be done without adding to the burden of others. School Committeeman Joseph Lee said that he opposed paying higher salaries now because it would necessarily be at the expense of the health and training of the pupils, for the money is needed for buildings and equipment.

POE POEM GOES AT AUCTION FOR $785

The last day of the Amor L. Hollingsworth library sale at Libbie's was the most successful of the three in the total amount of the sales, although there was no single price so high as the $1,130 paid by Harvard for the old Massachusetts charter Wednesday afternoon.

The third highest price of the sale was recorded when George D. Smith paid $785 for Edgar Allan Poe's "Al Aaraaf," "Tamerlane" and minor poems, Baltimore, 1829. The opening bid on this was $500.

MADE A THIEF BY HIS HUNGER

Driven to desperation by hunger, William Kelly grabbed a small package of print butter and a bundle of sausage from the pantry of John Martin in Somerville avenue, Somerville. He ate ravenously, first taking a bite out of the butter and then eating a sausage. Shortly after taking the articles he was arrested in Cambridge and turned over to the Somerville police.

He was arraigned to-day before Judge Wentworth on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny and was held for the Grand Jury. Kelly left the State farm at Bridgewater a few days ago. He told the police that he had very little to eat since then and that he was starving when he took the butter and sausage. He said that his hunger forced him to take the articles.

WOMEN STORM LICENSE BOARD

Twelve women intelligence office keepers stormed Pemberton square to-day to tell the members of the Licensing Board what they intend to do if the new rules and regulations regarding their business is enforced in Boston. The women would not make public their plans for fear of incurring the displeasure of the board. It is understood that the board will not recall the regulation. Instead they will see that the rules are strictly enforced.

Under the new rules which were issued several days ago, the applicant for a position has to pay a small fee for getting a position, while the burden of the expense falls on the employer. This, the remonstrants say, will drive them out of business as the employers are always loath to give up money.

JOHN M. GRAINEY DIES SUDDENLY

A sudden illness caused the death of John M. Grainey, until recently one of the best known political reporters in New England. For many years he had written the news of the State House, representing the BOSTON AMERICAN, the Boston Herald, the Boston Post and Practical Politics. He had the confidence of the leaders of both parties.

— SCENE IN CONGRESS

The Sensation of the Tariff Discussion at Washington!

IT OCCURRED last December at Washington—in the Capitol.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House were discussing the tariff on wool, some stating that the existing tariff made "an all-wool suit a luxury not to be enjoyed by the average American working man."

Answering this statement, a prominent wool manufacturer who appeared before the committee said the suit he wore entirely disproved the claim. It was an all-wool suit. It was fashionable in cut and beautifully tailored. Members of the Committee agreed that it looked like a $60 tailored-to-measure garment.

That Suit was bought at Hilton's, Philadelphia, for $12.50.

These are facts, easily confirmed by reading the minutes of the Ways and Means Committee.

It points conclusively to where the best clothes values are to be had. It should guide you in the purchase of your new Spring garments. The Suit that stirred Washington was typical of Hilton's better styles, better qualities and greater values then and NOW.

Hilton's Spring Styles are Ready—advanced styles that would do justice to the artistic eye, skilful hand and exorbitant price of the best Fifth Avenue Tailor—yet they're no higher priced than ordinary "ready-mades."

Spring Suits and Topcoats $12.50 to $45.

SUES FOR LOST SCHOOL TIME

LYNN, April 15.—Burton E. Wescott of No. 13 Boston street has engaged counsel to sue the city of Lynn or the officials responsible for making his ten-year-old daughter lose two months of schooling as a result of a dispute over her vaccination. Bertha Westcott, a pupil in the Sanborn school, has just resumed her lessons after an absence of nine weeks. She fears she may lose her promotion.

The loss of the girl's certificate of vaccination by her school teacher was the direct cause of Bertha being sent home last January with a note directing her parents to have her revaccinated.

Her father objected to making the girl undergo the operation again. He informed the school authorities, and the Board of Health officials as well, that Dr. E. M. Dolloff had vaccinated his daughter, and declared because the teacher had lost the certificate he didn't believe he should be held responsible for the loss of her schooling.

This week the father was haled to court charged with failing to send his daughter to school. Judge Lummus, after hearing two physicians disagree as to what constitutes a successful vaccination, ordered the case against the father continued until July 20 without finding.

WOMEN STRIKERS FIGHT WITH BRICKS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 15.—Woman tobacco stemmers who tried to return to work in the American Tobacco Company's factory to-day were attacked by women strikers and a pitched battle followed. Bricks were used as weapons and several combatants were injured before the police stopped the fight.

$11,000 LOSS IN SHARON BLAZE

SHARON, April 15.—Forest fires to-day caused a great scare in Sharon Centre and West Sharon, starting almost simultaneously and threatening the town with destruction. The whole department and many citizens fought the flames for many hours before the fire was checked. The loss in West Sharon is estimated at $11,000. A house and barn owned by Jeremiah Daley were destroyed, while a sawmill and about two hundred thousand feet of lumber on the estate of the late Dr. Gavin at Idlewild were somewhat damaged.

The fire at the Centre began at about 1 o'clock and soon reached Edgewood road and threatened buildings on the estates of C. H. Nutting and R. S. Earle. When the wind changed Fire Chief Edgar Andrews had to change his battle front and fight to save buildings along Oakland road, and Chestnut, Walnut and Pleasant streets.

The fire fighters, armed with shovels, rakes and brooms, made a final stand to prevent the flames from crossing South Pleasant street and by holding the blaze in check saved the buildings in the neighborhood.

LAWYER SUES WIDOW OF HIGH ROCK BARD

LYNN, April 15.—Mrs. Agnes E. Hutchinson, widow of Lynn's famous bard of High Rock, John W. Hutchinson, who died last Fall from accidental poisoning, was to-day sued for $4,000 by Attorney Walter W. Payne of this city. Payne was Mrs. Hutchison's lawyer while her poet husband lived, and during the settlement of the $100,000 estate he left. Of the estate Mrs. Hutchison was finally awarded her widow's portion of about $30,000. Mrs. Hutchison is at present visiting with her son, a civil engineer, in Pratt City, Ala.

Milk Producer of White White House Dead.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—"Mooley," the pet cow and pure-milk provider of the White House, is dead. The aristocratic animal was allowed the exclusive privilege of grazing on the White House lawns. Insufficient green grass at this season of the year led "Mooley" the other night to wander about the stable in search of food. She found an open oat bin and helped herself too free to a grain intended for horses and work animals. The repast proved fatal.

Hens Lay Eggs While Asleep.

CEDAR GROVE, N. J., April 15.—The soporific effect of the comet is being experienced by the hens of this district. Squire Hake Baldwin reported that three days ago he had noticed one of his hens sitting and that the hen's eyes were closed. Not wanting to disturb the hen the squire went away on tiptoe. To-day he thought the hen had slept long enough. When he roused her he found she had laid three eggs in her sleep. The eggs were fresh.

Caught a Shad Worth $200.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Charles Ostermeyer of Pleasant Plains, S. I., went out in Princes Bay and caught shad. When he was opening one his knife struck something hard. It wasn't a fish bone; it was a pearl about the size of a pea. Ostermeyer brought it up to New York and a man in Tiffany's said it was worth $200.

Sad News! Sardines Scarce This Year.

EASTPORT, Me., April 15.—The open season for canning American sardines began to-day. Everything is ready except the sardines, which so far have not visited the shores near Eastport. This unwonted shyness has forced the price the packers have agreed to pay the fishermen up to about double what it was last year.

WOMEN WANT REFUSE BURNED QUICKLY

While the representatives of the organizations of masculine membership opposed the establishment of local incinerators for the disposal of garbage and refuse, at a hearing before the City Council, the Women's Municipal League was strongly in favor of them, as against one large plant, on the ground that the work could be more quickly and effectively done by districts. The Council has before it an order appropriating $300,000 for a big garbage incinerator. Fully a dozen organizations were represented at the hearing, and all urged that the city be made and kept cleaner.

FLAG IS PLANTED ON MOUNT M'KINLEY

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 15.—There is absolutely no question that the members of the Fairbanks expedition reached the summit of Mount McKinley, as they reported, on April 3. The flag which they planted there can be seen from this place on clear days. It is also absolutely certain that Dr. Cook never made the ascent, as he said he did, for a most remarkable formation of mountains would exist there, according to his description, and no mention of such a formation has been made by the members of the Fairbanks expedition. This statement is made upon the authority of W. F. Thompson, editor The News Mine.

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA

A New Idea That Upsets the Old Method.

The old method of treating eczema and similar skin diseases as blood disorders is being rapidly superseded by the new compound called Cadum. This remedy is applied direct to the affected parts, thus excluding the air and starting the healing process at once. The itching ceases the moment Cadum is applied, and the most stubborn cases yield to its wonderful curative powers in a remarkably short time. Other skin troubles, such as salt rheum, psoriasis, acne, herpes, tetter, itching piles, blackheads, pimples, eruptions, etc., are also cured quickly by Cadum, which is sold by all druggists at 10c and 25c a box.

That Suit at $15

WHAT is it, you say, that makes "That Suit at $15" the very best value at this price offered in Boston to-day?

The same thing that made "The Music Master" famous—ART.

ART in the fabric—the weave, the sheen, the soft, rich blending of colors, the shading of tones. ART in the draping—in graceful lines, symmetry, proportion.

We don't claim "That Suit at $15" is made of a better grade of material that the best $15 Suit produced, because there are some clothiers who put just as good fabric into their $15 Suits as we do.

But we do claim most emphatically and your own native sense of quality will substantiate our claim—that for beauty of fabric, smartness and exclusiveness of design, accuracy of fit and elegance of finish, "that Suit at $15" has no equal anywhere in New England!

Seventy beautiful patterns in cassimeres, worsteds, cheviots, tweeds, serges, etc., in exquisite shades of marine and Venetian blue, silver, steel and birch bark greys. Natural shoulder, break-proof front, high, closely set collar, hand-made buttonholes. Permanent crease trousers. Sizes 33 to 48 chest measure.

'FRET NOT THY GIZZARD,' SAYS PEARSON AT 90

CHICAGO, April 15.—Dr. D. K. Pearsons's ninetieth birthday was celebrated quietly at his Linsdale home to-day.

"It might as well have been my fortieth," said the philanthropist when asked how he felt. "I never felt better in my life. How do I do it? Well, ever since I was a young man I have followed out a plan of life that I think is the best if you want to be happy.

"There's a well-known German motto which says: 'Mensch, aergere dich nicht;' literally translated it means 'Man, do not fret.' I make it 'Fret not thy gizzard.' Be contented. Make those around you happy and you will be happy as a matter of course. Every man should marry young and be contented.

"Mrs. Pearsons, who died four years ago, married me when I was twenty-seven years old. We lived together fifty-nine years and I can say truthfully that during all that time I never had opportunity or occasion to fret.

"Young men should remember to exercise a lot. Automobiles and horses are useful in their way, but your feet will prove your best friends if you walk them around enough.

"I never fail to take my daily walks. Also I believe in the early to bed, early to rise adage. Go to bed at 7 p. m. if possible and get up at the same hour next day. Earlier, if you want to, but never later."

BISHOP FEEHAN'S MOTOR HITS MAN

WORCESTER, April 15.—As Harry Sotir was crossing Only square last night he ran directly in the path of a thirty-eight horsepower automobile, in which Bishop Daniel F. Feehan of Fall River was riding. Sotir, evidently bewildered, threw out his hands, as the automobile was stopped, smashing one of the side lamps and cutting the palm of his left hand and his right arm. When he saw the blood he ran through the square and out of sight.

He was stopped in his flight by Horace J. Fleuraut and taken to station 1, where his wounds were dressed by a police surgeon.

'DAKOTA DAN' RUSSELL READY TO MAKE FINAL APPEAL TO THE COURTS

"Dakota Dan Russell's" appeal from Judge Lawton's decision declaring him an impostor and not the real Daniel Blake Russell will be filed in the Probate Court at East Cambridge to-morrow. Senator Leslie A. Simpson, attorney for the North Dakota claimant, says he intends delaying the filing for one day in order to escape the Friday "Hoodoo."

"It was on Friday, June 5, 1885, that Dan ran away from home," said Senator Simpson, "and look what has resulted. I'll not file the appeal until Saturday morning. It is ready, and could be recorded to-day, but to-day is Friday and that is enough for me."

The Russell identity fight will, it is expected, be brought before the Probate Court in a new form by the filing, within a few days, of a friendly action by "Fresno Dan," acknowledged by "Melrose Willie" as the long-missing Daniel Blake Russell. The purpose of this petition will be to establish legally the identity of the Californian for the protestation of the executors of the Daniel Russell will. When the petition is brought before the court all parties friendly to the executors will acknowledge "Fresno Dan" as the real heir.

New Fight Promised.

The establishing of the new claimant's identity will, however, not be made without a contest. Senator Simpson is expected to enter an appearance for "Dakota Dan" in opposition. If "Fresno Dan's" petition is allowed it will mean a new avenue by which Attorney Simpson can carry the identity fight to the Supreme Court.

It is declared that W. C. Russell, however, favors sharing his father's property with the newcomer.

He will, at least, it is predicted, share the family home at Melrose. At present he is waiting in order to let the ardor of "Dakota Dan's" Melrose partisans cool before attempting to take "Fresno" to the Melrose homestead. To-day the brothers are staying in Boston. Both are guarded by detectives to prevent any hostile demonstration and the Russell home at Melrose is being protected by eight strong-armed guards.

Guard Strengthened.

The number of guards was doubled after the second demonstration by Melrose people, and the burning in effigy of Judge Lawton and Ferdinand Almy.

The people who lead the second demonstration against W. C. Russell and his co-executor, F. C. Almy, say to-day that they will make a third next week. Several new effigies will be burned, say the leaders, unless Melrose will keep all available members of the police force on duty until all signs of action by "Dakota Dan's," friends are over.

EVE IN RED SKIRT SAVES DAY FOR ART

Mother Eve is in town.

She was brought here by Representative Martin Hays of Brighton, who is now being hailed in that modern Eden, the House of Representatives, as the Latter-Day Adam.

With chaste regard for the proprieties Hays provided Eve with a flaming red skirt. His object in calling on "our common ancestor" was to kill the Sterne anti-nude bill and the Mildram substitute bill. Hays succeeded beautifully. Both bills were drowned in a overwhelming vote and waves of laughter.

The Sterne bill was to prohibit the exhibition of the nude human form in public. It has been opposed by artistic interests, which drew sad pictures of the classical statuary in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts with their splendid outlines concealed beneath draperies.

When an adverse committee report was offered yesterday Representative Mildram moved to substitute for the report a bill to prohibit the exhibition of certain statues to children under eighteen.

At this psychological moment Representative Hays convulsed the House by introducing Mother Eve.

Reaching into his desk he hauled out and waved aloft to the startled legislators and amused gallery a statuette of the female form divine, only the aforesaid "F. F. D." was clad in a red skirt, which made it supremely ridiculous.

Waving the statuette and skirt about—a la Maude Allan in the "Spring Song," Hays said:

"That's what will happen if these bills are passed. I suppose even the naked truth would make some people squirm."

Representative Mildram glared at Hays, who promptly dubbed Mildram as "the representative of the Fig Leaf Trust."

By this time the House was in an roar. Above this rose the shrill treble of women spectators in the visitors' gallery.

The Mildram substitute was lost on voice vote. Friends of the Sterne bill wished to ask for a division, but they couldn't stop laughing in time.

Members seated nearest Hays tried to grab the skirted statuette, but Martin chivalrously put her back in his desk and defied them to lay rude hands on the venerable lady.

MADAME JEANNE LEAURENT.

A Blessing to Humanity: Cured Anaemia.

Madame Jeanne Leaurent Was Recently Completely Cured of a Severe Case of La Grippe by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey—Before This She Had Suffered Continually from Headaches and Anaemia, but They Have Entirely Left Her Since She Began the Use of This Great Medicine—She Recently Wrote:

"I wish to praise your precious tonic. For nearly three years I have been using it every day in a little milk and sugar, and it has given me great strength. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey certainly is a benefit to humanity. It has cured me of a severe attack of La Grippe, and thanks to your product, I am able to continue at my avocations. Before I tried it I was troubled with headaches and anaemia, but I never have them now. I tell everybody about the value of your medicine, and I wish to thank you sincerely for having put so valuable a tonic in the hands of the people."—Madame Jeanne Leaurent, 24 West 91st St., New York, N. Y.

Open Saturday Evenings

Hello

Now is the logical time to spruce up — Spring is here —Sunshine is here and a holiday is just around the corner. If you will take this hint you'll come here. The greatest display of clothes ever — economical, too — We make the clothes we sell—Know that if we don't make them right, we can't hold trade—so we're pretty sure of our position at all times.—Then, we sell at one profit only; don't have to pay the middle men. Clothes from maker to wearer means money saved. Get the idea?

Men's and Young Men's SUITS

The exhibit of grays that we're showing at this price should be influence sufficient to bring you here—Coats in different lengths to fit every fancy—dip front—semi-fitted backs—tapering waists—peg trousers, with or without cuffs—also the more conservative models for men who prefer neatness and trimness to fashion's caprices........ $15

We'd rather you'd see this line than to attempt description—type can't do it justice—We never were more satisfied with any clothes ever turned out of our shops—grays—dark worsteds with faint stripe colorings—club check mixtures and garments, when it comes to fit, that will meet immediate approval........ $20

Others from $10 to $35

Talbot's Blue Serge Suits

A special suit, designed in two separate and distinct models. One for conservative dressers, the other for the young fellow who wants ultra style garments—Coats cut high shoulders——Snug waists, long lapels—dip front. Trousers peg with plenty of turn-up. Colors as fast as modern manufacturing methods can make them. Rich, lustrous blue. Tailoring far beyond that seen in suits usually sold at........ $15

Better Buy That Hat

Before the holiday—Stocks are at the very pinnacle of completeness—Enough styles to suit the most particular—Enough interest in the department to take the trouble to satisfy and fit customers perfectly.

"Blue Ribbon" guaranteed Derbies—Made by first-class hat manufacturers—A variety of shapes. Silk band and trimmings. Equal to any $3.00 hat sold. Replaced if the one you select goes wrong........ $2

Soft Hats $1.50 to $4
John B. Stetson Hats
$4.00 and $5.00

Boys' Clothes

Boys' Reefers—Ages 2½ to 12 years. Made of covert cloth. Fancy coatings, worsteds and plain and fancy cheviots.—Snappy little garments that are a real necessity to every boy. Comfort and appearance.

$3.50 to $12

Boys' Suits—An exceptionally strong line of fancy gray fabrics. Made with double breasted coat, knickerbocker trousers. Unusual values at this price........ $5

On Sale at Hanover Street Store

Men's Suits—Pretty stripe gray suitings, made in the late broad shoulder, dip front coat styles; swell fitting trousers. Very finely tailored. Same suits sell everywhere in town at 15.00. Our price

175 BOSTON BUSINESS MEN OFF TO NEW YORK TO STUDY REAL ESTATE

Numbering about 175, a delegation of Boston real estate and other business men left the South station by special train at 12:38 to-day for a two days' special trip to New York under the auspices of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange.

The six parlor cars and a diner ran as a five-hour train ahead of the limited. A banner bearing the caption, "The Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange," was strung along the first car. Everybody was enthusiastic over the trip and scores of friends unable to go cheered as the special pulled out.

The journey is aimed to rouse Boston business men to greater deeds here by showing them tremendous realty improvements going on in the metropolis.

Mayor Takes the Trip.

Mayor Fitzgerald had accepted the invitation of President John J. Martin to accompany the party, and he was early on hand. Governor Draper was unable to be one of the party, but the State was represented by President Treadway of the Senate, Senators Teeling and Dean and the Hon. W. H. Gove of the Governor's Council and a number of members of the House. Former Governor J. Q. A. Brackett was also in attendance.

Mayor John F. Meehan of Lowell and Mayor Arthur Howard of Salem were in the party.

In New York all will put up at the Hotel Manhattan until Sunday night, when they return on a special train. A lengthy programme has been arranged in New York by Frederick O. Woodruff, New York representative of the exchange and one of its former presidents.

At Banquet To-night.

To-night the Bostonians will be tendered a banquet by the New York Real Estate Brokers, Long Island Real Estate Exchange, New York Real Estate Exchange and the New Jersey Real Estate Exchange at the Hotel Astor. Mayor Gaynor will greet them and Mayor Fitzgerald will speak. The other Boston speakers will be President Martin, President Treadway of the Senate, George G. Crocker, ex-Governor Brackett and Representative Edwin A. Bayley. A large number of New York men will speak.

To-morrow the party will inspect the tunnels, new bridges and other improvements in Manhattan, closing the day by attending the performance at the Hippodrome in the evening. On Sunday an inspection trip will be made of improvements on Long Island.

The following took the trip:

Those Who Went.

GIRL LOSES HAIR IN SHAFT

WALTHAM, April 15.—Miss Margaret Potts, 23, employed in the mainspring department of the Waltham Watch Company's works, just escaped death when her hair became entangled about a swiftly revolving shaft in the factory.

Had it not been for the presence of mind of Assistant Foreman Charles Whitten, who shut off the power, it is believed she would have been killed. Her scalp was nearly torn from her head and her long braids of dark brown glossy hair were so firmly wound about the shafting that it was necessary to cut them away with a knife before she could be released.

PLACE WARREN CASE ON FILE

After pleading guilty to the charge of polygamy Franklin H. Warren had his case placed on file in the Superior Court before Judge Wait on the understanding that he would go to Providence, thence to Chicago, and would keep out of this State and not annoy his recently divorced wife, Miss Ethelynde M. Gillis of Dorchester, from whose house he kidnaped his two little daughters, Phyllis and Adrienne, last month.

CALLS FOR RENT; FINDS DEAD WOMAN

Mrs. Mary Ann Hutchins, fifty-seven years old, of No. 23 Woodward street, South Boston, was found dead in her room early to-day by the agent of her landlord, who called to collect the rent. The woman was all right when her husband, who is employed as a night watchman, left her last night. Death is said to be due to natural causes, but Medical Examiner Magrath has been notified. Mrs. Hutchins suffered from heart trouble.

Social Notes

The Orpheus Club will hold its third annual ball to-night in Howe Hall. The club is composed of telephone operators in the main toll exchange of the New England Telephone Company. Among the young women who have been working for the success of the affair are Misses Tillie Clark, Henrietta Rose, May Doherty, Rose Collins, Nellie Desmond, Carrie Litchfield, Gertrude Keeley, Florence Shea, Helen Kenney, Margie Halligan and May Matthews.

A dance in aid of the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children will be given at the Tuileries to-night by the Girls' Club. The matrons are Mrs. Melville M. Bigelow, Mrs. Edward B. Kellogg, Mrs. Robert Bleakie and Mrs. Roland O. Lamb.

At the meeting of the Metaphysical Club this afternoon the new secretary, Dr. Anna B. Davis, was installed and the retiring secretary, Mrs. La Vake, who has served for four years, was tendered a reception. The club meeting was addressed by Mrs. Katherine B. Pryde.

James J. Walsh, for three years connected with the central division of the Boston Postoffice as a substitute carrier and who has been transferred to Salt Lake City, Utah, was tendered a reception by friends and presented with a leather travelling bag.

Members of Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., had charge of an enjoyable entertainment given last evening in the Hunnewell Club house at Newton. The program included the one-act drama, "The Day That Lincoln Died."

Musical pupils of Miss Marie A. Allot gave a recital in Court Hall, Huntington avenue, last evening. The program was followed by dancing.

Among the exhibitors at the Washington dog show is Mr. Larz Anderson, whose group of Boston bull terriers is attracting much attention.

The annual meeting of the Rockland Woman's Club to-day was followed by a reception to the newly elected and retiring officers.

The Emerson Club will hold its first annual dance in Navillus Hall, Meeting House Hill, this evening.

$25,000.00

As a guarantee that the story of Father John's Medicine is absolutely true, the sum of $25,000 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise.

Half a century ago, when Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., recommended to his parishioners and friends the prescription that had restored him to health and strength, the people named it Father John's Medicine.

Its power to make strength and build up the body explains why it cures Colds and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

Double Legal Stamps will be given with every purchase mornings, until 12 o'clock noon, at Wolf's, "My Clothier" corner Hanover and Portland streets. Single stamps thereafter.

GAY AUDIENCE SEES TECH MEN PLAY AS GIRLS

A gay society and collegiate audience jammed the Shubert Theatre this afternoon for the opening production of the 1910 Tech show, "The Queen of the Cannibal Isles."

The society girls laughed gaily at the Tech "girls" in the big cast, but had to admit that the student actors looked more than a little girlish in their frills and frocks.

The young authors spent the whole of last Summer on the book. They are Clarence Agustus Stewart, '12, and Edward Crawford Vose, '12, of Newton, who won the competition from a field of twelve entries. The music is largely the work of Orville Boardman Denison, '11, of South Framingham, known to his fellows as the "Musical Wonder." The lyrics were nearly all the composition of Dudley Clapp, '10, the general manager of the show.

The cast was selected following rigid tryouts by Coach James Francis. It is representative of the cosmopolitan make-up of the student body, one member hailing from Switzerland. "Hal" Billings, '11, one of the Institute's foremost athletes, worked out assiduously in the gym for his part as the monkey.

Charles P. Kerr, '11, of Cantonsville, Md., plays the part of the leading lady. Kerr does not look the athlete that he is when frilled in petticoats and laces. Munroe Pevear, '12, of Boxford, the Queen, is not far behind, and fills the Salome part to perfection. Sidney Malcolm, '09, of Somerville, the author of last year's production, is one of the best in the woman's parts.

The show is along the lines of the modern popular musical production, a light plot stringing together the dances and songs, the comedy filling the space left by a heavy book.

20 ENTOMBED BY EXPLOSION

QUEBEC, April 15.—Twenty men are entombed, and it is feared that many of them are dead as a result of an explosion on the railroad at St. Alphonse, Saguenay County, about fifty-seven miles northwest of Montreal. St. Alphonse has a population of 400. A gold mine is operated near the town. It has several stores, mills and potash factories.

MARK TWAIN IS GAINING RAPIDLY

REDDING, Ct., April 15.—Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), who arrived at his country home here last evening, fatigued from his long journey from Bermuda and very ill, passed a comfortable night, and it was stated at the house today that he seemed much brighter and that his general condition was encouraging.

RUN SPECIAL TRAINS ON PATRIOTS' DAY

For the convenience of those who seek Summer cottages and those who have already chosen their Summer homes and desire to make arrangements to open them, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has arranged special train service on Patriots' Day, April 19. There will be special trains for Cape Cod points, to Hyannis and Chatham, to Buzzards Bay resorts, to Nantasket Beach, to the South Shore summering places and Plymouth. Announcement is also made by the passenger department of the New Haven road of a special arrangement of suburban trains on Patriots' Day. Many trains will be discontinued on this day and regular trains will perform extra service to take care of the holiday travel.

FIERCE FOREST FIRE IN CONNECTICUT

PLAINFIELD, Ct., April 15.—The worst forest fire ever known in this State is burning to-day near here. Over two thousand acres of fine timber, more than seven miles of fence, thousands of dollars' worth of cutwood fence posts, railroad ties and poles have been destroyed. Five men who were fighting the fire were overcome and one severely injured by breaking barb wire. The fire, which was set by a railroad train, has been burning for two days.

PROBE JERSEY SCANDAL.

TRENTON, N. J., April 15.—Governor Fort to-day directed the Speaker of the House to investigate the scandal attending the closing session of the Legislature when an all-night orgy, in which women and wine are reported to have figured, took place in the State House. The Governor says that the public demands the truth in the matter.

BRYAN OUT BY OWN CHOICE, POLITICS TO KNOW HIM NO MORE

Says Hearst Message Means More Democratic Seats in Next Congress

"THE Democrats were delighted with Colonel John Temple Graves's speech at the Jefferson Club banquet, and the import thereof. It was the most important feature of the most important Democratic banquet held in several years. Nobody with two ideas above a Hottentot can fail to comprehend the meaning of the speech of Colonel Graves. That message from Mr. Hearst means twenty more seats for the Democrats in the next Congress than had been counted upon."

CHAMP CLARK,
Democratic Floor Leader of the House of Representatives.

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The "cloud no bigger than a man's hand" gathered with the arrival of a letter from a distinguished traveler, upon the horizon of a radiant and expectant Democracy. It passed away in the warmth and glow of a banquet revelry, in which its elements were dissolved.

The cloud came from Brazil, but it came by way of Lincoln, Nebraska, and it fairly rained the suggestion of Bryan—William Jennings, known of old, lord of Democracy's far-fetched battle line—"lest we forget." The letter was sent in answer to an invitation to the Jefferson banquet at Washington. Bryan could not come because the seas and the mountains were between him and the banquet." If he had been on this side of the Rio Grande nothing human could have kept him from the talk fest of his tribe

Flooded White House With Sunshine.

But the rumor of his message carried the possibilities of his seizure of the party lines. It was said that he had outlined the policy of the party in the coming campaign; that he was coming home to direct the fight, and perhaps to head it. The rumor darkened the Democratic horizon. It fell like a shadow on the capital. It flooded the White House with sunshine.

The letter has been published. It congratulates the party upon its brightening skies. It eulogizes Jefferson, and it commits the unspeakable folly of glorifying the free silver crusade of the last decade and of raising the ghost of sixteen to one.

With the publication of the letter the excitement dies and the boom of the Bryan dies "a-bornin'" in the bosoms of its chilled and dispirited followers—if there were any followers of any kind.

I think Mr. Bryan is out of the running and probably out of personal politics, by his own free will and consent, and by the unanimous concurrence of those who have been so long his followers.

Bryan as Hitchcock Sees Him.

I find two of these here. I talked with Gilbert Hitchcock, Congressman from Bryan's district in Nebraska. Hitchcock of all men ought to know Bryan. Bryan has been the editor of his paper, the World-Herald, of Omaha. He has been Bryan's friend, counsellor and champion, and for his brave and beautiful sake Bryan has declined to enter the Senatorial race in Nebraska, which Hitchcock hopes to win. And Hitchcock says positively that Bryan has no intention nor desire to come personally into this campaign—that he came unwillingly into the campaign of 1908—that Bryan is now settled into the careful business of accumulating a safe and permanent income for himself and family—that Bryan is cautious and timid in investments, and is putting his accumulations entirely in Government bonds.

For the rest he proposes to give himself—his eloquence, his influence and his energies to the great cause of morality—and religion. He is a Presbyterian elder, the son of a Presbyterian elder, and is profoundly religious in nature and habits. He wishes to be the great evangel of Piety, Prohibition and Peace, and is content to rest his fame on these great advocacies.

It is true that Government bonds make a slow income. One hundred thousand dollars' worth of them would only bring an income of $2,000 a year, and it would take a half-million dollars' worth of them to give him an income of $10,000 a year. But Bryan is as cautious in personal finance as he is dashing in political theory, and he is a conservative in piling up his personal fortune from his personal effects and industries.

Even Tomlinson Says 'Twon't Do.

I talked with John W. Tomlinson of Alabama. No man had ever had a better friend than John Tomlinson has been to Bryan. He is the sponsor of every Bryan boom that has been born in Dixie since the first meteoric advent of the "Peerless." He has children of all ages and sexes named for Bryan, and there are, in pantaloons and pinafores, little "Bryans" and "Williams" and "Jenningses" sprinkled thick through all the domestic forest of the Tomlinsons in Alabama. It was Tomlinson who had a duck-fit when I asked Bryan at Chattanooga to nominate Roosevelt in 1904, and it was Tomlinson who made Chattanooga lurid with the molten lava of his protest against any man save the "Boy Orator" for the Presidency.

But Tomlinson now says that it will never do for Bryan to run again; that Bryan is a great moral force, and should let it go at that.

He thinks that Bryan's field is the platform, the pulpit and the teacher's desk, and that he would be blind to his duty and to his opportunity if he should ever run again.

And as say Hitchcock and Tomlinson, so say they all. The Nebraska sun is set. The Peerless is pledged henceforward to the Prince of Peace, and in this noble and serener realm the politicians may well afford to leave him undisturbed in dignity and serenity, and the entire country will not fail to wish him gloriously well.

Overloading The Stomach

Causes Incomplete Digestion, Weakens the System and Breeds Dyspepsia.

Trial Package Free.

Gluttony is as vile a sin as drunkenness and its evil results are more terrible and far more rapid. The human system turns into the stomach and alimentary canal from 7 to 35 pounds of digestive fluid every twenty-four hours. Cram your stomach with food and you exhaust these juices. If your stomach cannot digest the food because it lacks juices to do with, you should either eat less or make more gastric fluids.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain ingredients one grain of which will digest 3,000 grains of food. With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in your stomach the evil effects of overeating are removed, for these little tablets when dissolved stick to the food and digest all the good from it. They won't abandon the stomach and leave a mass of decaying undigested food to putrify and irritate the mucous membrane lining. They give greater quantities of gastric fluid, help the intestines enrich the blood, prevent constipation, and gluttony, while sinful, may yet be made less harmful by the use of these tablets.

Every druggist carries them in stock; price 50 cents per box, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package free by mail. Address, F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

DRAPER LOSES BET; BORROWS TO SETTLE IT

The attention of Police Commissioner O'Meara is called to the following remarkable case of gambling:

At the ball game yesterday Governor Draper sat next to Mayor Fitzgerald.

"How are you betting, John?" remarked His Excellency.

The Mayor looked cautiously around and seeing no policemen in sight, leaned over and, placing his hand close to the Governor's ear, replied in a whisper:

"Well, Eben, I never bet on the result of a ball game, but I will wager the peanuts for the party that the Giants don't.

"What do you mean by 'don't'?" asked the Governor.

"You don't mean to tell me that you are not familiar with that popular form of betting," said the Mayor.

The Governor winked. "That's all right, John, I was simply trying to feel you out. You're on for the peanuts."

The Giants didn't score and the Governor, like a game sport ordered a round of peanuts for the party of four.

Then a most embarrassing thing happened. The Governor reached for his pocketbook. He fumbled around and could find no change.

"I'm sorry, young man, but I left my change at home. I'll send you a check to-morrow."

"That don't go with me," said the boy. "Come up with the cush."

"My name is Draper. I am the Governor of the Commonwealth."

"You got none the best of me, old sport, my name is Taft. Cough up."

His Excellency blushed. Then he whispered to Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham, who was seated next to him.

"Certainly, Governor, very glad to accommodate; any time I can be of service, just command me."

Thereupon the Lieutenant Governor dug up twenty cents and the game went on.

WALSHE TO LECTURE BEFORE HIBERNIANS

William J. Walshe, the distinguished lecturer, will appear in Paine Memorial Hall next Sunday evening for the benefit of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, represented by Division 42 of this city. Those who wish to see a genuine representation of Ireland as she really is should not miss this treat. Mr. Walshe will be assisted by his regular concert company, and the following songs will be heard for the first time on an American stage: "The Rose of Tralee" and "Bendemeer Stream," with superb piano and violin obligato; the ever popular "Angel's Whisper," "Bells of Shandon," "Minstrel Boy," "Kathleen Mavourneen," "The Shannon Shore" and others equally delightful.

EXCRUCIATING SKIN TORMENT

Irritation Almost Drove Him Mad—Eyes So Swollen Could Scarcely See—Skin Specialist Said It was Psoriasis—Cured by Cuticura.

SO PLEASED WITH CURE ANXIOUS TO TELL OTHERS

"I was completely cured of a skin disease by the use of the Cuticura Remedies after doctors had failed. The complaint first attacked me in 1906, my hands and arms right up to the elbows breaking out in large blisters, some an inch across. I need not tell any sufferer from distressing skin complaints what I went through. The irritation almost drove me mad. I became an out-patient of a London hospital. I received little benefit, and after a fortnight's attendance I was seen by a skin specialist who told me the complaint was psoriasis. The irritation was not allayed at all. I persevered with the treatment and continued to attend the hospital for two months but I was far from cured.

"Later the disease took a more serious form, affecting my neck and face as well as my hands and arms. My neck was covered and sometimes my eyes were so badly swollen that I could scarcely see. Irritation is too mild a word to describe my suffering; it was excruciating agony. I was sent to a doctor who gave me some ointment, but it did me no good and in the end I lost my job. A friend in London sent me some Cuticura Soap which softened my hands, made them feel fresh and more comfortable. I obtained some Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Ointment and was especially pleased with the Ointment which immediately allayed the irritation and caused the sores to heal steadily and surely. In three weeks I was completely cured and there has been no return of the complaint. I am so pleased with my cure that I am anxious to tell others about it. Arthur Duncan, Litchard Hill, Bridgend, South Wales, Jan. 16, 1909."

Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

RACING IS DONE AT READVILLE

Harness horsemen in this locality as well as all over the country have a big disappointment to swallow. The famous Readville track will be closed this season so far as holding the big turf events that annually occur.

Owner Andy Welsh has called off all dates at Readville as well as at his Hartford track which will make racing a dead letter in this section of the country.

The reason of the act is the inability of the promotors of the New York tracks to make meetings a success and the enforced strict laws against betting at the race tracks.

The withdrawing of the Buffalo track also had a big influence in causing Welsh to close the doors of Readville and Hartford as it broke up the circuit to such an extent that it made racing almost impracticable in the East.

BALL TEAMS TO VISIT THEATRE

John P. Harris of Pittsburg, who is on the board of directors of the Boston Base Ball Club, was forced to return home today on account of pressing business. He was an interested spectator at the opening game and had as his guest Tunis F. Dean, manager of Blanche Bates Company. Mr. Dean is business manager of the Toronto Base Ball Club in the Eastern League during the ball season, and will join the Torontos in Baltimore, April 25.

Mr. Dean on behalf of the Shubert management extended an invitation to the New York and Boston Clubs to atend Miss Bates's performanc at the Shubert to-night, and both clubs accepted.

Miss Bates accompanied by Mr. Dean will attend the game this afternoon. Manager John McGraw of the Giants and Mr. Dean are old friends, being fellow townsmen in Baltimore, while Mr. Harris and Mr. Dean were associated in theatrical business for several years in Pittsburg.

BROCKTON HAS STRONG TEAM

BROCKTON, April 15.—Manager Steve Flanagan of the Brockton ball club of the New England League is wearing one of those smiles that won't come off—and there's a reason. Steve thinks, and all the wise ones in the city think, that Brockton will have a ball team this season of which she may justly feel proud. For two seasons the fans here have been favored with a near pennant winner, but this season they want the best in the league, and everything seems to indicate that Brockton will have Jesse Burkett tied to a hitching post from the very start.

The recruits got together this week on the Centre street grounds and the dopesters who saw them work say there's nothing to it but a pennant winner. There are twenty in the squad and all but a few look good. There will be a merry scrap for the nine positions and as a result Flanagan will get a much better team. Henriksen, McLane and Stankard are solid for the outfield. Dulin, Shannon and Captain Terry McGovern look good on the bases, with Foster at short. Norris is a crack catcher, while Tommy Gilroy, Eberly, Warwick and Sweeney look like the best bets for the pitching staff.

Then there are Smith, Fraser, Kimball, Cronin, Lavigne, Corbett, Brown, Orcutt, Williams, Quinn, Hafey and Sederquist, all of whom might be given a chance during the early part of the season. Delmar Orcutt, the star last year with Brown University, who lives in Rockland, might be given a chance in the infield.

COLLEGE TEAM TO PLAY IN JAPAN

CHICAGO, April 15.—University of Chicago players may invade Japan this Fall for a series of games with the Waseda University team. According to an announcement from Japan the Waseda officials will invite the Maroons to pay them a visit, and the University of Chicago authorities are favorably inclined toward the undertaking.

It is understood that the Waseda officials, who are said to be willing to guarantee the expenses of the trip, wish to visit the Maroons next Spring if this Fall's plans are approved.

LABOR BOYCOTTS TIGER BALL GAME

DETROIT, Mich., April 15.—Because he claims Cleveland baseball is "unfair" to organized labor, John Potter, walking delegate of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, refused to allow a party of ice workers to attend yesterday's ball game at Bennett Park. Potter met a wagon of the company hauling men to the game. He ordered all union men in the party to descend. All obeyed except two foremen of the ice company.

SOCIETY DIVIDES HONORS BETWEEN HORSE SHOW AND FARCE COMEDY

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Society's interest will be divided this evening between the Horse Show at the Park Riding School and the amateur performance to be given by the Paint and Powder Club in Whitney Hall, Brookline.

"Bachelor Hall" is the name of the clever farce which the club will give and which was written by R. E. and R. W. Baker. Included in the cast are Miss Beatrice Mae Roberts, who has won fame for herself at other performances, and Miss Margaret Conrad, who covered herself with laurels by her skilful acting in the "School Mistress;" Miss Madeline Johnson, the granddaughter of Charles Barron, the famous actor, from whom Miss Johnson has evidently inherited much talent; and Mrs. William Grant Nowell, who acted so cleverly in "The Gutta Percha Girl," complete the list of feminine characters. DeWitt Adler plays the principal male role and Dana Sylvester, president of the club, Ralph Banker of the Harvard Dramatic club, Vernon Durbin, David E. Moeser, Charles Floyd, Harold Haskell and Leonard Mason are the other male members in the cast.

* * *

The Twentieth Century Whist club will hold its annual whist and dance at the Somerset this evening. This event is always for the purpose of aiding worthy charities, and those to be benefited this year are the Free Home for Consumptives, Quincy street, Dorchester, and the Ladies' Catholic Club Association.

* * *

The third in the series of evening musicales being given by Mrs. W. H. Graves, soprano, and George Copeland, Jr., takes place this evening at the home of Mrs. Graves on Brattle street.

* * *

Mr. John W. Garrett, secretary of the American embassy at Rome, and Mrs. Garrett, who was Miss Elizabeth Warder of Boston, are making their first visit in this country since their marriage in Washington nearly a year ago. They are at present the guests of Mr. Garrett's mother, Mrs. T. Harrison Garrett, at her estate, Evergreen, on North avenue, in Baltimore.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Philip M. Lydig go to their beautiful country estate at Roslyn, L. I., to-day for the Summer.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. George G. Hall of the Adams House, are having their Summer place, Hall Manor, at Portsmouth, R. I., re-decorated and renovated. The Halls will shortly leave town to occupy their Summer home.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Scott will close their town house on Boylston street, during July and August, and will spend that time at Newport at No. 19 Rhode Island avenue. Mrs. Scott was formerly Miss Maud Ladd, and is considered one of the most picturesque blondes in society. She is a daughter of Mrs. Caroline B. Ladd of Newport. Mr. Scott is the composer of "The Silver Tureen," a comic opera in two acts, which was first given at the Newtowne Club of Cambridge. It will be produced on May 11 and 12 at the new auditorium in Malden.

* * *

June 28 is the date selected for the wedding of the Vincent Club favorite, Miss Anita Calef, and Francis Boardman, Yale '97, of the William Boardman family of Madison avenue, New York.

The ceremony is to take place at Trinity Church, and is quite likely to be the last of the season's large weddings in town.

Miss Calef is the daughter of Mrs. Benjamin Shreve Calef of Beacon street. Mr. Boardman is a civil engineer and is connected with the New York Central railroad.

* * *

A brilliant wedding at King's Chapel in June will be that of Miss Julia Coolidge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., of Brookline, to Henry L. Richards, grandson of Julia Ward Howe. Miss Coolidge, who made her debut only two Winters ago, is pretty and vivacious, and will make a most interesting bride. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge of Beacon street, who gave many of the most brilliant hospitalities for her during her debutante season. Mr. Richards who is a son of Mrs. Henry Richards of Gardiner, Me., is prominently identified with the Groton school.

A new home is being built for the young couple at Groton, to be ready for occupancy at the opening of the Fall term.

* * *

Still another Vincent club girl to wed in June is Miss Barbara Higginson, daughter of F. L. Higginson of Beacon street. Her marriage to Barrett Wendell, Jr., will take place at the country home of her father.

LOW VITALITY AND DYSPEPSIA

When the Blood Fails to Give the Stomach Strength to Do Its Work You Must Build Up the Blood Before a Cure Can Be Hoped For.

Are you making the mistake of so many sufferers from stomach trouble by using predigested foods, digestive ferments and stimulating medicines in your efforts to get relief from your trouble? If so this explains why you are still a sufferer.

In the beginning the various forms of stomach trouble are almost without exception caused directly by a general lowering of the vitality of the body, either because of overwork, indiscretions in living or sickness. In any event impoverished blood and weak nerves result and the loss of appetite, gas on the stomach, dizziness and other symptoms which follow are only some of the warning signs that the blood and nerves are failing to give the stomach sufficient strength for its work.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the most direct cure for stomach trouble because they are a certain blood builder. Pure blood makes healthy nerves and strengthens the entire body.

The cure of Mrs. Philip Mulligan, of King Ferry, Cayuga Co., N. Y., is convincing proof of the merit of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in stomach trouble. She says:

"It gives me great pleasure to tell of the great benefit I have received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. About three years ago I had a terrible attack of indigestion and for weeks I ate scarcely any food. So much gas formed on my stomach that I felt as though I was being smothered. Two or three times a week I would have severe attacks of pain in my stomach. When these attacks came on, I could not lie down or sleep.

"At intervals I would have to consult a physician but their medicine would never benefit me for any length of time. I had been sick for about two years before I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which I finally did upon the recommendation of a friend in Rochester. In about a month I was cured of all indigestion. Since then our house has never been without this remedy.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

TAFT HISSING CONDEMNED BY SUFFRAGISTS

WASHINGTON, April 15.—All Washington is excited to-day over the meeting of the suffragettes here, not so much because of the suffragettes themselves, but because of the fact that President Taft was hissed when he addressed the convention of the American Woman Suffrage Association last night.

"The action of the women who hissed President Taft has set back the suffrage movement ten years," said one of the conservative leaders to-day. She declared that the association would officially repudiate the action of the delegates who were angered when President Taft gave views on woman suffrage differing from theirs.

The action of the disgruntled delegates was declared to-day to have been a public insult to the President. A long meeting was held at the Arlington Hotel behind closed doors, the officers of the association participating. It lasted several hours. All the delegates are excited over the affair, and though an attempt is being made to pour oil on the troubled waters, bitter expressions are flying back and forth between those who participated in the insult to the Chief Executive and those who condemn their action.

Hissing Is Condemned.

Rev. Anna Howard Shaw of Moylan, Pa., president of the association, denied herself to interviewers, but Mrs. Rachel Foster Avery of Swarthmore, Pa., first vice-president, who was on the platform when the convention reassembled this morning, condemned the action of last night.

"The hissing of the President," said Mrs. Avery, "was not in accordance with the views of the great majority of the delegates. That action was participated in by only a few excited women who lost their heads. The convention and the association do not endorse their action. We are extremely sorry that it occurred."

Whatever action the association may take, it is the general opinion in Washington to-day that the cause has been damaged. It is argued that even if the dignity of Mr. Taft's office was not sufficient proof against such treatment, his presence as an invited guest should have insured courteous treatment from his hosts.

Outsiders Are Blamed.

Miss Harriette Tifton, president of the District of Columbia Equal Suffrage Association, declared that few had taken part in the hissing.

"This action," said Miss Tifton, "was not taken by delegates in the body of the hall, but occurred along the windows and doors. I believe that most of it was done by women who were not delegates. I deplore this occurrence, as it did not represent the sentiment of the assembly. Still, it is not the first time in history that a President has been hissed, is it?"

A conference on practical methods of work, conducted by Mary Hutchinson Page of Massachusetts, was held to-day.

The insult offered President Taft was the main topic of conversation at the White House. Secretary Carpenter said the President was silent on the matter. He referred to the fact, however, that Mr. Taft had, when he accepted the invitation to address the convention, made it known that he was opposed to the movement.

A strenuous effort is to be made to prevent the suffragists from being given a public hearing before the House Judiciary Committee and the Senate Committee on woman suffrage in view of the insult.

ROOSEVELT WILL GO ON THE STUMP

NEW YORK, April 15.—Assurances have been received by political friends of Theodore Roosevelt within the last few days that he will make at least three or four speeches next Fall in behalf of the Republican candidate for Governor. The fact that no ex-President of the United States has ever gone on the stump in a State campaign will not deter Mr. Roosevelt, according to his friends.

MUTT AND JEFF ARE FEATURES AT DANCE

The members of the Brockton high school baseball squad were guests of the Be(e) In Clover Club at a dancing party this week. One of the novel features was the "Mutt and Jeff" dance. Illuminated pictures of the two characters were placed on the stage, looked out over the dancers, and a placard made Mutt say: "Let's take in the Be(e) In Clover Club dance, you old cheese," and Jeff made to answer, "Soft pedal, Mutt, old kid; I'm strong for dances, but Brockton is no-license!" Everything was Mutt and Jeff during the evening, and from the manner in which the dancers discussed Bud Fisher's work, it would seem that every one of them read the BOSTON AMERICAN.

SELECTING JURY IN HYDE MURDER CASE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 15.—The temporary jury of forty-seven men, from which twelve will be selected to-day, has been completed to try Dr. B. C. Hyde for the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope. The jury will probably be completed to-day. Witnesses will not be heard until Monday.

WHAT A YANKEE GIRL SAW IN IRELAND

A wonderfully graphic story of what she saw and heard and experienced in the land of the shamrock, a picture of Irish travel to arrest the attention of all, whether of the Irish race or without its pale of influence. Truth, wit and human sympathy are mingled in its lines. Read it in the Boston Sunday American.

22 'BREAKERS' WON OVER BY GIRL PICKETS

Picketing, led by Miss Mabel Gillespie, a Radcliffe College girl, has resulted in twenty-two of twenty-five strike-breakers at the mills of the Roxbury Carpet Company in Simmons street, Roxbury, quitting work. To-day despite the watchfulness of five big policemen under charge of Sergeant O'Neal of Station 10, Miss Gillespie got the three other strike-breakers to promise to quit their work to-morrow night.

Miss Gillespie is a member of the Women's Trade Union League of Boston, an organization composed of Radcliffe, Vassar, Wellesley and Smith women, many of whom live in the Back Bay, as well as scores of hard-working women. Miss Emily Bauch, professor of Sociology at Radcliffe, is president of the Women's League which is openly supporting the cause of the 119 girl strikers. Mrs. Glendower Evans and Miss Mary Morton Kehew are other leaders in the league.

To-day the girl strikers were further cheered to learn that the textile weavers of Fall River enthusiastically voted last night to lend them financial aid. The Men's Club at the Maverick Congregational Church, Central square, East Boston, has contributed $10 to the strikers.

Acting under instructions of Superintendent Thomas A. Stearns of the Roxbury Carpet Mills, Foreman Joseph Hardy of the setting room and Foreman Louis Thorp of the drum room are inviting all former employes of the mill to attend a mass meeting at the People's Institute, Whittier and Tremont streets, to-night, when the corporation's side of the case will be stated.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN IN PANIC AT FIRE

From fifty to sixty persons, women and children, fled from fire and smoke about 7:45 o'clock this morning, at Nos. 9 and 11 Camden street, and from a three-story wooden tenement block in Washington street, the rear of which joins the Camden street building.

Fire started in the second story flat of the Camden street tenement. It is vacant and the firemen and police are now conducting an investigation to determine how the fire was ignited.

Smoke rolling from the rooms and halls of the second story flat and eddying through the building alarmed all the tenants in not only the Camden street building, but in that which it connects in Washington street.

Mrs. George Bender piloted her family of several young children through the smoke-choked halls and down the stairs of the Camden street house to safety. About fifty persons, mostly women and children, fled from their apartments in the Washington street house. Smoke poured in dense clouds from many of the windows in both houses.

The clouds of smoke pouring out of the windows and the cries of the women and children as they rapidly fled from the buildings soon caused a large crowd to collect. This interfered for a time with the work of the firemen.

All sorts of rumors flew about among the people and the firemen, despite the smoke, dashed through both of the buildings, satisfying themselves that every person had escaped to a place of safety. What panic there was soon subsided when the frightened ones found they were in no danger.

$25 IN PRIZES IN "TEN BEST NOVELS" CONTEST! WHAT ARE YOUR IDEAS?

In SUNDAY'S AMERICAN the "Best Novels," editor will endeavor to give a tabulated list of the great novels more frequently selected by the thousands of BOSTON AMERICAN readers who are discussing which are the ten greatest novels, in the AMERICAN'S latest prize contest. The contest proposition is this:

WHICH ARE THE TEN BEST AND GREATEST NOVELS?

The idea is not which are the most amusing, which are the so-called "best sellers," but which ten books convey in the form of an interesting story the greatest amount of useful information, and at the same time provoke in the reader the greatest amount of useful thought.

$25 in Prizes.

Send in your list of the ten greatest novels—the ten that do most to interest, to cheer the lives of those that read them, and at the same time convey useful information, and stir up useful, noble thought.

For the best list the American will give a prize of $10; for the next best a prize of $5, and for the next ten prizes of $1 each. The winning lists will be adjudged by a committee of Boston literary people.

"Looking Backward."

"Best Novels" Editor:

The following seem to me to be a good selection of novels I have read:

The Vicar of Wakefield, Goldsmith.
Uncle Tom's Cabin, Stowe.
Ben Hur, Wallace.
Les Miserables, Victor Hugo.
Last Days of Pompeii, Lytton.
Ships That Pass in the Night, Harraden.
Tale of Two Cities, Dickens.
Monte Cristo, Dumas.
Ivanhoe, Scott.
Looking Backward, Bellamy.

SUSAN HALL CAMERON.

Aims at Variety.

"Best Novels" Editor:

To write a list of the ten best books would be impossible, as there are more than ten books of equal rating. However, if a friends should ask me to direct their reading, confining themselves to ten books, I should endeavor to give them a list of books that would lead their thoughts through new channels and give a different field for contemplation as each new volume was laid aside.

I think the following list would broaden the mind of all who read:

Les Miserables—The greatest of all books.
Ben Hur—With its story of Bible history.
Uncle Tom's Cabin—Showing the struggle between the North and the South, the black man and the white man.
Black Beauty—Teaching humanity to dumb animals.
Tale of Two Cities—A story of the French Revolution.
Vanity Fair—For all women.
The Talisman—A story of English history.
Never Too Late to Mend—Showing the heart and soul of the convict, and the inside life of a prison.
Arabian Nights—Not only broadening the imagination, but teaching in its own way not a little of the customs and livings of the East.
Mill on the Floss—A beautiful story of the heart throbs and passions of youth.

Respectfully, MRS. WM. LOWNEY.
No. 845 Walk Hill street, Mattapan.

"Put Yourself in His Place."

Best Novels Editor:

Enclosed find list of the ten best books that convey the idea called for by the BOSTON AMERICAN:

CROWDS VISIT SMALL STORE

Small's Smart Style Shop, the popular name given to the big store of J. G. Small Company, Nos. 523 and 525 Washington street, was to-day the mecca of hundreds of women shoppers. The big store was beautifully decorated.

Situated in the centre of the shopping district, and carrying as it does one of the largest and best lines of millinery and women's suits in the city, it was no wonder that the shop was to-day the objective point of discriminating buyers. A large number of out-of-town women in Boston to do their early Summer shopping inspected the store.

The Small store is one of the most attractive places of its kind in Boston. Not only are the highest and best grades of goods carried, but the management has fitted out the store in a manner that appeals to the woman.

Potted plants and flowers, indicative of the approach of the glad summertime, enhanced the beautiful decorative effect.

The concern, of which J. G. Small is president, W. Macaulay, vice-president, and W. Brewer, treasurer, caters exclusively to women. The feature department is that devoted to millinery, in which are carried all the latest creations in headgear.

NO CUT TO-DAY IN COAL PRICES

The anticipated drop in the price of coal scheduled to go into effect to-day didn't materialize, and is without foundation, according to the dealers. The annual Spring drop of from fifty to seventy-five cents on various grades of the commodity took place April 1. The dealers to-day announced that there will be no further reduction.

The present rate per ton is: Pea, 5.25; furnace, $6.25; egg, stove and nut, $6.75. This is a cut from the Winter prices of seventy-five cents on stove and nut and fifty cents on egg, furnace and pea.

A. C. Jordan, representing the Marston Coal Company, said:

"The Spring drop of from fifty to seventy-five cents went into effect April 1. There will be no further change until the regular rate is restored in September."

Representative of the Metropolitan, William Crafts & Sons and other dealers said the same.

A full size 50-cent box of Dr. Charles Face Powder for 10 cents and a coupon from next Sunday's American is an offer no woman can afford to pass up. Order it to-day.

"BOBBIE'S PA" TECH FEATURE

With "Little Bobbie's Pa" (with the proper apologies), as the senior class history feature, "Technique 1911," the annual published by the junior class of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, made its initial appearance at the institute yesterday.

"Little Bobbie's Pa," which was written by Wellesley J. Seligman, '11, is considered one of the best class histories that has ever appeared in Technique. The other class histories were written as follows: Junior, Don R. Stevens, '11; sophomore, Mark A. Oettinger, '12; freshman, Eugene L. MacDonald, '13.

In the statistics William C. Salisbury of Chicago was voted the most popular man in the class, the most appreciated, tied with Theodore B. Parker of Allston for the honor of being the best athlete, and was voted biggest class fusser by a large vote over Harold D. Williams of Springfield. Salisbury is a member of the Technique Board, the Institute Committee, track team and Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

Juniors at Tech are evidently not heavy drinkers. Milk and water put beer to rout in the vote for the favorite drink.

AGASSIZ GIVES HARVARD MUCH

NEWPORT, R. I., April 15.—Harvard University is generously remembered in the will of the late famous scientist, Alexander Agassiz, which has been filed for probate here. To the president and fellows of that institution, for the general uses of the Museum of Comparative Zoology, is bequeathed $100,000, and for the publication of memories of Professor Agassiz's scientific expeditions an equal sum.

Twelve thousand dollars, which is left to two servants of Professor Agassiz to give them a life income, is to revert to Harvard at the deaths of these servants and their wives. Many valuable scientific books and instruments also are given to the university.

The American Academy of Arts and Sciences receives $50,000, and the National Academy of Sciences $50,000. The sum of $25,000 is left to the city of Newport for the support of the Coles Laboratory and for use in maintaining manual training in the schools. To his secretary, Elizabeth H. Clark of Cambridge, is given $25,000 outright and a life income of $5,000 yearly.

NINTH VICTIM OF TONG WAR

NEW YORK, April 14.—The ninth death in the roster of victims of the tong war was recorded to-day, when Foong Hong Soy, who was shot by a Suey Sing hatchet man on the night of April 12, died in the hospital. The intercession for peace by Ou Shou Tchun, first secretary of the legation at Washington, has failed thus far.

MAX BAKER WINS BOUT WITH BEECHER

NEW YORK, April 15.—Maxey Baker of Boston earned a decision over Willie Beecher at the Longacre A. C. The visitor was the cleverer and had the harder punch. With the exception of the sixth round it was all in favor of Baker.

After Baker had gained a slight advantage in each round Beecher began a rally in the sixth which threatened to earn him a victory. He rushed his opponent around the ring and showered him with right and left swings to the face, head and body. But that was the only time Beecher showed good form, and during the next three rounds the honors went to the Boston man. Beecher boxed as thought his recent bout with K. O. Brown had showed him up.

LANGFORD KNOCKS OUT BARRY IN FIERCE FIGHT

By H. M. WALKER.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 14.—It was not an upperent this time. It was a good old-fashioned right counter with which Sam Langford tumbled Jim Barry in the sixteenth round. It was a punch laden with knockout force and it left Langford master of the situation.

It is not fair at that to give the entire credit to the finishing blow. Langford's useful upperent brought Barry to terms. It puffed his face, addled his thinking apparatus, disarranged his ideas of distance and left him a mark for the right cross when the propitious moment arrived.

Here is about the way the fight ended. Barry for many rounds preceding the sixteenth had been trying to turn the tables with a right swing for the jaw. He was not lashing out all the time. He covered up, clinched, and used his superior strength in the roughing matches by wrestling with Langford. He let go the right swing at long intervals, and as a rule his glove fell fully half a foot short of Langford's face.

Barry tried this punch for the last time after Langford had beaten him to the ropes and hammered him repeatedly with body punches and upperents. When the men parted they moved towards the centre of the ring and then Barry in desperation let go his right swing. Langford yanked his head out of the line of fire and came with a right counter, which caught Barry squarely on the chin. Barry's eyes were half closed as he went floorward and little drops of blood fell from his lips. He made a game attempt to get his legs under him, but he was too far gone. He rolled over on his back and was still in that position when Langford was receiving congratulations.

Hammered Him Repeatedly.

It was an exciting fight and in the early stages, and it looked as if Langford had encountered a snag. It wasn't easy for Sam to find a right of way for his uppercuts, although he did manage to break through Barry's guard with one in the opening round. You see Barry has had to do with that upperent before, and he has learned in a way to provide against it. As the fight progressed to-day it was only by distracting Barry's attention with other punches that Sam could clear the way for the smash he loves best.

It was in the second round that Barry first caused the idea to diseminate that the event was to be a "two-man fight." He shot a hard straight left into Sam's stomach, and after that laid on Langford in an inert way while the negro clubbed him over the kidneys in a clinch. Then they broke and Barry came back with another straight left just over the belt.

Sam's nostrils widened and his eyes snapped. He didn't like it a bit. He closed in on Barry and as Barry tried to blanket him Sam wielded a free right effectively on Barry's short ribs and the left side of Barry's face.

Held His Fire.

Barry held his fire for a while. The fellow seemed notably cool, and by the way he was leaning his whole weight on him in the hugging matches it seemed as if it were his purpose to wear out his opponent and save his own energies for the latter rounds.

One of the features of the fight was the way Barry cut loose after spells of inaction. In the second round he let go two rights in quick succession. They were glancing blows, but one of them had enough power in it to gash Langford's lip. When Langford went to his corner his mouth was bleeding freely, and the men who took the short end were smiling gleefully.

In the third round again Barry cut loose at intervals and kept Langford's mouth bleeding. The crowd cheered loudly when Barry placed both hands on the negro's face, and the turmoil continued when Langford missed a number of times while trying with his right upper cut.

JEFF'S BIRTHDAY BUT HE WON'T CELEBRATE

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

JEFFRIES'S TRAINING CAMP, Rowardennan, Calif., April 15.—To-day is Jim Jeffries's birthday, but a celebration of the anniversary in another than the ordinary way will be curtailed by the absence of Mrs. Jeffries and her preparation in an Oakland Hospital for an operation. Something unusually good had been planned by Manager Sam Berger for the event, but with Mrs. Jeffries and Dick Adams away from the camp the day is likely to be quieter that the others. Mrs. Jeffries's birthday comes next week and her husband, on the eve of her departure for a couple of weeks, gave her a costly diamond necklace, a beautiful piece of jewelry that contains twenty or more gems. Jeffries will be thirty-five years old.

An idea of what appearance the Emoryville arena will make on July 4 was gained this afternoon when Jeffries and Black Bob Armstrong squared away in the ring.

Armstrong was with Jeffries in his preparation for Fitzsimmons seven or eight years ago and since then Jeffries has never exchanged blows with the negro.

Nine years ago Jeff met and defeated Armstrong who was then in his prime. Big Bob was added to the training staff for the Johnson fight because his long association with the other dinge has taught him his style of fighting and Jeffries's bouts with Bob will teach him how to attack and defend himself from Johnson.

To-day's boxing was slow and tame. About four-fifths of it was feinting and sparring for an opening.

Until the end of the third round when Jeffries sailed in and almost crowded Bob over the ropes a couple of times, the match was so tame and playful that it was almost a joke.

COURTNEY HURT IN PRACTICE

Louis Courtney of Randolph, who is to play in the United States League, while practicing with the Brockton New Englanders this week, met with an accident which will keep him out of the game for several weeks. He strained some of the cords in his leg and now wears crutches.

Before and After the Game

Could you picture anything more pleasant? Two out in the eleventh. Home team at bat. Man on third. Man on second. One run needed to win. Opening game of the season. Raving maniacs. Hubbub. Brass band. Governor present. Staid business gents on hand. Everybody on edge. Shean, the Arlington butcher boy, at bat. Biff! Too hot for the Giant third-baseman. The winning run comes in. Prolonged cheers. Nickels for the elevated.

It was a great opening. But, come down to cases, the home team outlucked the other fellows. It was a great pitchers' battle. Up to the eighth inning not a Dove saw first. It was one-two-three for Lake's men, and not a ball went outside the diamond except a puny fly to Seymour. In the eight innings that the Giants went to bat they had corraled two runs which seemed enough to win. But in the eighth the home team got a man across. Sharp singles by Sweeney and Martel started things. A sacrifice by Smith helped and then a boot by Bridwell scored a run. In the ninth a base on balls did the business. It was followed by two singles, Herzog and Sweeney contributing the hits and the game was tied up.

The Doves are a light hitting team. Their games will have to be won by their pitchers, of whom they have a fine staff. Mattern and Evans pitched winning ball, but so did Ames of the Giants. A perfect third strike pitched by Ames to Beck in that eleventh was missed by Umpire Klem. He called it a ball. Had he named a strike, the winning run might not have been made in the eleventh. But that is the way the game goes. The Doves have made a fine start and we all hope they will keep it up.

That was the finish of the game at the old South End grounds. President John Dovey was all smiles. Director Harris, fresh from Pittsburg, his first visit to Boston, all smiles, too. Big crowd. Everybody happy.

Things ran along until the last of the eleventh. Then Moran, the first man up, was passed. Graham sacrificed. Beck's out put Moran on third and he scored when Shean hit an ugly bounder to Devlin, who had played marvelously up to that point. Devlin failed to handle the ball clean, and the winning run came in.

Lake worked hard. He tried to win the game by quickness in the last of the ninth, when he told Herzog to take a chance and score from third when the catcher was returning the ball to the pitcher. Herzog failed by a hair, but the play showed that Lake is alive to all the possibilities of the game. The play itself was well worth the try.

Never was finer fielding seen in a game. The way the infielders smothered the base hits and corraled the ugly grounders was a caution. Bill Sweeney surely is at home at short. Bill has always claimed that third base is no place for him. At short field he was a tower of strength to the Doves.

And Bill was right there with the slap stick. He pushed out the first single for his side and scored the first run, too. If it hadn't been for Bill the Doves never would have caught up with the Giants. Yes, Bill is all right at short and with the bat.

What do you think of little Jerry McCarthy, the mascot? He is supposed to be a Red Sox mascot, but here we find him in a Dove uniform and rooting hard for Lake's men. Also he has a Red Sox uniform, at home, which, it is supposed he will wear at the American League opening on Monday. What do you think of such actions? Can Jerry be mascot to both teams, or will one of them have to strip him of his uniform and cane him? This is a serious question.

John P. Harris, the new director of the Boston Nationals, came all the way from Pittsburg to see the opening game. He was naturally much pleased over the victory of the Doves. Mr. Harris has the interests of the Boston team much at heart. While he is comparatively new in baseball he is a wise business man and it is certain that his advice and counsel will be sought by President John Dovey, who is trying so hard to land a winning team in Boston.

WILL BET HE BEATS DELMONT

The winner of to-night's match at the new club in Lawrence will be given a chance in this city with Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland. For that reason both boys have worked like Trojans, and when they meet one of the fastest contests ever seen in the mill town is expected to be on tap.

Eddie Moore, the manager of Bobby Tickle, is willing to bet a substantial amount that his protege will win the decision over Delmont. The latter and his friends are just as sanguine that he will win, and they are going up there 200 strong to see him wallop Tickle. Kid Ryan's friends, too, will enliven matters. A special car will carry a bunch of the boys from Somerville.

DOVES OUT FOR SECOND GAME WITH GIANTS

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

Well, well, there is certainly some class to those Doves, and the dopists who figured them out as a second division team must have another think.

This afternoon the Live Birds will go after the Giants again, with the intention of putting over another wallop that will take the courage out of McGraw's pets and make them easy eating for the rest of the series.

But—it's a little word and means a lot—the Giants are going to die hard and McGraw is too good a general to see his pets go down to defeat twice in succession at the very outset of the season. What would the home fans think? And McGraw's reputation is at stake. So altogether it is going to be a battle royal for the Doves, with Fred Lake to inject the ginger from the clang of the starting bell to keep his youngsters hustling and on their toes till the curtain comes down.

A taste of victory over such a formidable foe as the Giants at the start was just the tonic needed for the Doves as well as the fans, and they will turn out bigger than ever to see the pesky Giants get another throw down.

Perhaps McGraw will pull his trump card out of the pack in Christie Mathewson, who is tugging at the leash to get on the slab and seek revenge for the tumble the Doves gave his comrades. But they all look alike to the Dove batters, who have their eyesight sharpened up for any kind of artillery that the McGraw staff of sharpshooters can fling up.

YALE-HARVARD CHALLENGE BRITISH

LONDON, April 15.—The Yale-Harvard challenge for dual track games will be taken up when the Oxford-Cambridge terms begin. The Cambridge officials are reported to be very anxious to arrange a meeting, especially as the Americans are willing to come to England, and it is not believed that Oxford is likely to be less willing. A joint meeting of the Oxford and Cambridge athletic committees will be held next week, when the challenge and conditions will be discussed.

DORANDO WINS INDOOR 12 MILES

PITTSBURG, April 15.—The international twelve-mile race between St. Yves, Dorando, Smallwood, Bruce and Mersh, scheduled for Duquesne Garden, was a failure, owing to the non-appearance of St. Yves, whom the management reported as having fluked on them flatly in failing to come as per agrement.

The race was then between Dorando and Smallwood, and it was a good fight. Dorando won in 1:06:41 2-5. Smallwood was a good second, being about 10 yards behind, and Bruce, the Pittsburg runner, was chasing them both home.

WESTON DOES 50 MILES.

ASHTABULA, O., April 15.—Edward Payson Weston, tramping across the continent, passed through here, taking occasion to rest two hours. Word came that he had reached Conneaut, near the Pennsylvania border, in safety. Weston covered fifty miles in his walk.

NEW YORK, April 15.—It's up to the Red Sox and the Yankees to settle that fourteen-inning tie game they played yesterday, and this afternoon on the Hilltop the two teams will clash again and more stellar diamond glitterings are on tap.

The result to-day will show which team can stand the gruelling best, as that extra inning contest took considerable energy to go through with and only the fitter athletes will be able to stand another combat of a like kind.

To-day the game is the one topic of discussion among the fans who can't remember when an opening game had such brilliant trimmings and they are throwing bouquets at the home talent, not overlooking the individual work of the visitors especially Captain Harry Lord the demon fielder and Jake Stahl, the lad who accepted eighteen chances without the semblance of an error.

LYNN OPENS WITH TORONTO

[illegible] Hamilton, manager of the Lynn team of the New England League, will get [illegible] the first real game of the season [illegible] when his men go up against the Toronto team of the Eastern League at Ocean Park. Hamilton will put his best team so the fans can get a chance to get a line on the new men in the lineup. Metz, who was secured from the New York [illegible], will cover first this season and Cargo from the Utica team will play short.

Hamilton has already said that he expects to win the pennant this season and the Lynn fans have the same idea. Meyers, who was secured from the St. Louis Nationals, will be on the pitching staff, and a great deal is expected from him, and [illegible] from the Sioux City team last season will also be one of the mainstays. Toronto defeated the Worcester champions [illegible] and Hamilton wants to get away with the game with the Eastern Leaguers just to show the fans that his [illegible] has something on the champs.

The Secret of Happiness

BE UNSELFISH, SAYS DOROTHY DIX

TELL [illegible] secret of happiness [illegible] BE UNSELFISH.

[illegible] No selfish person [illegible] It grows [illegible] an [illegible] grasped [illegible] the very root [illegible] jealous and [illegible] spite and a thousand other [illegible] ing passions, that make a shirt of [illegible] for its unhappy victim.

[illegible] if you want to be happy, be[illegible] eliminating selfishness; for it is [illegible] true that we only keep what we give [illegible] the only happiness that ever [illegible] our own pathway is what we scatter [illegible] others.

Are you unhappy [illegible] you are not [illegible] because your fellow creatures show [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] Of[illegible] you long [illegible] that idea. It is [illegible]

DOROTHY DIX

We All Long for the Glad Hand

When you meet up with Jones, you [illegible] gin talking [illegible] about your af[illegible] You bore away with an endless re[illegible] all the little details of your [illegible] You tell him about your house, [illegible] your children about your automobile [illegible] your dog, about all the [illegible] personal things that concerns [illegible] for which he does not care [illegible]

You have a beautiful time while it lasts, but it pains you to observe that Jones breaks away at the very first pause in the conversation and makes a hasty exit. Furthermore, you observe that Jones begins to dodge you, and that you never see him if he sees you first. All of this makes you very sad and sorrowful, and a trifle cynical, for we all long for the glad hand from our fellow creatures, and to see a face grow brighter as we come.

Well, the remedy is with you. Just try being unselfish in conversation. Don't talk about your own affairs. Ask Jones about his, and lend an unwearied ear while he discourses about the perfections of his new car, and tells you the smart things that his baby says, and the size of the beans in his suburban garden.

If you do this, you won't find Jones running away from you. He will sprint to you with open arms; and you will find him, and his like, presenting you with silver loving cups and other tokens of their affection.

Are you discontented and miserable because you are not as rich as you would like to be? Quit being so greedy. Be thankful for the slice of pie that you have got instead of grumbling because you didn't swipe the whole bakery. Just reflect that a millionaire can't eat but one dinner at a time, or sleep in but one [illegible] or live in but one house, or wear but one suit of clothes, and that as [illegible] have got the ordinary physical comforts of life, you have got in reality all that money can buy you.

The balance lies in making yourself contented with your lot; and you can do that just as successfully with a few thousands as you can with a billion. Don't forget that the grasping hand is never [illegible] no matter how much it grabs. It is only the giving hand that overflows with peace and satisfaction.

Quit Dwelling on the Past

If you are a disgruntled old man or woman complaining that you are lonely and friendless, don't blame other people for it. Ask yourself what you have ever done to endear yourself to anybody. Face the fact that you are unloved because you are an unlovely, selfish, querulous old curmudgeon, and get busy trying to undo your mistake.

Quit dwelling upon your own past, and think about the future of those about you. Open your house to young people, and make it pleasant for them to be about you. Dive down into your pockets and help some struggling young couple over a hard place in their lives, and you won't find that your last days are your worst days. They will be filled with the reflected sunshine of the people you have made happy.

If you are a [illegible] who has [illegible] in som[illegible] in the [illegible] Don't spend your [illegible] another [illegible] stop [illegible] tears is to [illegible]

[illegible] for some [illegible]

[illegible] your own empty arms. [illegible] little [illegible] shall [illegible] instead of its [illegible] curse that will darken every hour of [illegible]

The Answer to a Conundrum

If you are unhappily married, try the [illegible] Suppose you husband [illegible] wife [illegible] paragon of per[illegible] that [illegible] get [illegible] than [illegible] If you [illegible] dwell so per[illegible] and your own right to [illegible] the [illegible] wife that was ever [illegible] of the matri[illegible]

[illegible] rank selfishness that makes a man feel that he ought to have gotten a [illegible] had neither temper nor nerves, and who never had to have new clothes; who never ran up bills, and who was always ready to meet him with a glad, sweet smile and never objected to his staying out late of nights?

And isn't it monumental selfishness that makes a woman say that she would have gotten no more than her just deserts, if she had married a man who was as handsome as a matinee hero, and talked like a [illegible] and had an inexhaustible bank account?

And isn't the real trouble between most couples the fact that each is selfishly bent on being loved and admired, instead of loving and admiring the other? You know it is, beloved, and it is literally true that there isn't a single case of domestic woe extant that couldn't be cured by a liberal application of unselfishness.

It is piteous to think that the answer to the conundrum, "How can I be happy?" at which the whole world guesses from the cradle to the grave, is [illegible] the single [illegible] Unselfishness, and how few ever [illegible]

Near Viands

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

I HAVE a nice new cook book, sent to me by Uncle Sam,
Containing many recipes for imitation ham,
Mock turnip stew, near breakfast food, and mimic scrambled bran,
Which all build up the system on an economic plan.
Perhaps you have not seen the book; so, for your benefit
I'll furnish in the next few lines some recipes from it.

Take several pints of good champagne, some truffles and some spice,
A breast of squab, a speckled trout, a quail just off the ice,
Mix up the fizz, fold in the squab, add just a dash of trout,
And when it's broiled, pour on the quail, bake brown, and take it out.
Then serve with Gorgonzola cheese and clear puree of clam—
A very cheap and easy dish—it's imitation ham.

Take seven pounds of pati-fois, one partridge, not too high,
A cylinder of Camembert, and boil till rather dry.
Break in some brandied apricots, two chocolate eclairs,
A half a pint of eau-de-vie, two alligator pears,
Three quarts of maple syrup and a tangerine or two.
Another tempting, low priced viand—it's called mock turnip stew.

Near breakfast food is made of paste composed of mushroom jelly,
With Rhine-wine smothered artichokes and candied vermicelli.
To fashion mimic scrambled bran take reindeer vinagrettes
And flavor with strong extract of young humming bird croquettes.
Add possum's tongue and Grant gazelle—ten pounds will quite suffice—
And you will find that you will be astonished at the price.

I can't recommend these things from my own point of view
Because I haven't eaten them, the house rent being due,
And other items, such as coal, and gas, from day to day,
[illegible] terrific inroads on my modest monthly pay;
[illegible] quite an appetite, and knowing how to cook,
[illegible] breakfast time came 'round, I fried and ate the book!

The visions it inspires.

"I fried and ate the book."

What Do You Do "in the Mean Time?"

By ARLETTA B. CANFIELD

IN the mean time what do you do?

Do you say something and then stand off and wait for the mean time or do you consider the mean time before you start?

When you try to reach the soul of a [illegible] mean time for [illegible]

While you wait and wait for the thing [illegible] away it is being considered in a way that will immortalize it forever.

You [illegible] do things [illegible] getting [illegible] everything to [illegible] and [illegible] and ground [illegible] it will [illegible]

Why Is It?

Why is it that the intertwisted time fol[illegible] today?

Why is it that time comes to stay?

Why [illegible] we throw it away and ask for it in the mean time when we get ready for it?

Why [illegible] we carry with us our own [illegible]

It means the [illegible] part of everything we do.

Nothing can be done without a reason of events. The first brings on its follower and the second [illegible]

So if we expect to find anything of a serious sort we must begin early with the thoughts that come from back somewhere. We don't know just where and why these crude, uncomfortable means work and make something less crude and less uncomfortable.

Suppose we want to work with the character of a young man who has just been hauled up before the magistrate and feels that the eye of all is upon him.

Do you think we can reach him if we call all the attention possible to the event?

So [illegible] way through the [illegible] to get [illegible] we avoid it that [illegible] making HIM [illegible] to be desired just [illegible] right to him?

What is there to [illegible] going [illegible] young man that is cast in [illegible]

Why [illegible] so [illegible] you do [illegible]

Why not [illegible] go straight up to him [illegible] hearted way you have [illegible] out your hand to him! Say to him, 'Come on, let's [illegible] for a time. It's hard alone, but [illegible] hard when there's some[illegible] to help you at the rough spots and the steep hills."

The Hardest Thing

That's the hard thing about turning right after you've once gone wrong—the thought of being alone.

Now, if the fallen one just had the feeling that there was somebody that expects him to [illegible] you don't [illegible] how near to the mark you'd be.

[illegible] should not be wasted on [illegible] careless mind, but with hundreds of [illegible] that come up in the civil courts [illegible] day in a great city there should be room for doubt, and the doubt ought not to be [illegible] on the last one just because he is the last.

Try following out this cheerful programme. Try it and then say later whether or not you think it is a failure.

How you should Dress Your Hair.

Lady Duff Gordon, who edits the famous fashion page of the Sunday American, will discuss this very important matter in next Sunday's Boston Sunday American.

Bill Clerk Likes Knocking

By KENNETT HARRIS

"I HATE a knocker," said the bill clerk.

"I think myself that they are inconvenient and noisy," agreed the cashier. "An electric bell is my choice for notifying the inmates of a house of an [illegible] presence, but knockers are [illegible]"

"I'm talking about [illegible] who knock," explained the bill clerk. [illegible] the whole [illegible]

"I see," said the cashier. "You mean persons addicted to [illegible] those [illegible]

"Words to that effect, yes," replied the bill clerk. "Tryson [illegible] the picking room, is one of 'em. He's got [illegible] blacksmith whipped to a light, creamy froth."

"Morning [illegible] hear his bellows roar," asked the cashier.

"Morning you can hear his hammer going all the time," said the bill clerk. "I guess it's about the [illegible] though [illegible] You'd have thought [illegible] you know how the boss got his start?"

The Successive Stages of Success

"Picking pockets, I suppose," said the cashier. "From that in successive stages, to porch climbing, safe blowing, train robbing and promoting companies until he [illegible] the stockholders out of this concern. Wasn't that it?"

"You must have been listening," declared the bill clerk. "It was pretty near as bad as that. Did you ever hear about the way he treats his wife?"

"None of the particulars," answered the cashier.

"[illegible] that he beats her with a rawhide whip two or three times a week and rubs salt and vinegar in the wounds. It seems to me strange that a woman of spirit would stand that sort of treatment."

"I never heard that," admitted the bill clerk. "Is that so, honest?"

"I've never heard it denied," said the cashier. "On the other hand, I have never heard it [illegible] It may be perfectly true [illegible] A man who will see his own daughter die in a poorhouse [illegible] because she refused to marry the man he selected, would do anything."

"I never heard that he had a daughter," said the bill clerk.

"Neither Did I," Said the Cashier

"Neither did I," said the cashier. "I'm just laying it down as a general proposition that a man who was callous enough for that would be callous enough to knout his wife."

"You're trying to be funny," asserted the bill clerk. "[illegible] your weakness. Tryson says that he is meaner than the Dickens to the lady, though. He's jealous of her, for one thing, and every time she speaks to any other man he starts to row with her. One time he put a notice in the paper saying that he wouldn't be responsible for any debts that she contracted, Tryson says."

"He'd probably be capable of it if he happened to be married," commented the cashier.

"Isn't he married?" asked the bill clerk.

"Not unless he deserted his wife in some other State," replied the cashier. "Of course, there's always that possibility, and we don't want to exonerate him without knowing all the facts in the case."

"He got kicked out of one of the clubs for cheating at poker anyway," said the bill clerk. "Tryson said he knew the waiter who was bringing the party the drinks when they nabbed him."

"I don't believe that," declared the cashier. "He might cheat, but he certainly wouldn't get caught at it. Tryson must have got that story wrong. I'm afraid the boss must have offended him some time."

"It isn't only him," explained the bill clerk. "He'll take a crack at anybody. He's working along with the worst collection of chuckle-headed loafers ever got together in a packing room. They're [illegible] soked, too, to hear him tell it, and the teamsters [illegible] killing their [illegible] room [illegible] in the [illegible] for [illegible] know what he [illegible]

"[illegible]," answered [illegible]

"[illegible] to you, if [illegible]," said the bill [illegible]

"[illegible] he did. [illegible] What were you [illegible] packing room, anyway?"

"[illegible] every once in a while," replied the bill clerk. "I like to hear him talk. By the time I've heard his opinion of everybody else, I begin to get a pretty [illegible] opinion of myself. [illegible] to a [illegible]

"[illegible] to hear him knock [illegible] 'That's the [illegible] of us, Johnny.'"

DAY'S BEST STORY

A YOUNG man was timidly courting a [illegible] One afternoon, in the [illegible] he [illegible] courage enough to ask in a tremulous whisper for a kiss.

"A kiss!" she said. "You ask me for a kiss. Now applied to the hand a kiss signifies respect. On the forehead it signifies friendship. Upon the lips it denotes all things—or nothing." She paused pensively, then went on. "You may, since you wish it, kiss me. You may express yourself in your kiss. Proceed."

The timid young man, red and confused, [illegible] "I mustn't lose her," he [illegible] to himself. "Where, then, shall I kiss her?"

His [illegible] were interrupted by a pretty whistle. It was his darling; her red [illegible] puckered into the shape of a rose, and her [illegible] pulled down over her eyes, hiding her forehead completely, and her hands were thrust to the wrists in the pockets of her jacket.

GRAFT FUND KEEPER GONE

ALBANY, N. Y., April 15.—While the leaders of the move to tear off the lid from legislative corruption were rejoicing at the advancement of their campaign, they got a sudden blow to-day when it became known that William H. Buckley had fled to Canada. Buckley, the insurance lobbyist, is believed to hold the key to the insurance situation.

Once before Buckley hurried to Canada quietly. That was in 1905, at the time of the life insurance investigation, when he was hunted for weeks by subpoena servers from the Armstrong committee working under the direction of Charles E. Hughes.

LOST CHILDREN AT HOME AGAIN

Esther, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooperstein, accompanied by her two-year-old sister, turned up bright and early to-day at the home of their parents, No. 351 Cross street, Malden. Last evening the home of Mr. Cooperstein caught fire while he and his wife were in Boston. Search was made for the two children, who had been left alone in the house. It was at first thought they might have perished in the fire.

The mother and father were very much worried until to-day. The children had taken refuge in the house of Mrs. Cohen, a neighbor, and had remained there over night. The fire damaged the property about $1,000.

PUBLIC WANTS TO KNOW ALL THE FACTS IN FIGHT OVER BOTTLED MILK RULE

By C. O. POWER.

The meeting of protest in Faneuil Hall last night against the regulation of the Board of Health scheduled to go into effect May 1, and which substantially compels all milk in retail stores to be sold in an original package or bottle, thus abolishing the time-honored dip tank, was interesting and illuminating, but not entirely satisfactory.

The discussion and consideration of the milk question, affecting, as it does, the life and health of the people, especially the babies, more directly perhaps than any other that our health authorities have to deal with, should be conducted with due regard for the arguments on both sides.

Next Wednesday Mayor Fitzgerald is to give a hearing on the new milk rule. Let us suggest some points that the meeting should consider:

The stated object of the bill is to more safely guard the public health. It is claimed that many of the dip tanks in the stores are allowed to remain in an unsanitary, unclean and dangerous condition. Such conditions should be remedied, of course, if they exist.

The Health Board declares that its principal object is to bring to the consumer the purest possible quality of milk. Certainly that is a laudable purpose.

It is urged against this new rule of the Health Board that it will not conduce to better public health, that it will entail a hardship upon poor people and that it will give the milk supply manipulators a virtual monopoly of the business in Boston, entailing an extra annual cost to the community of $1,540,000. These points should be cleared up.

The Boston Health Board inspector has recommended the new regulation in his three last reports. At Wednesday's meeting the Health Board should explain why the board has never found it necessary in the past to issue such a regulation and to answer why the same object could not be accomplished by a better and stricter State inspection of dairies. We have one State dairy inspector. It reads like an unpleasant joke.

In these days public officials are coming more and more to realize that they are answerable to the people and that better results are achieved when they are able to convince the people that their regulations are just and wise. In this instance the regulation is of grave importance to the consumer because, if he is to be burdened with an increase in the price of milk, he should be shown where his baby's health has been affected and where the new method will improve the baby's health.

Several epidemics of typhoid have been traced to bottled milk and it is claimed by opponents of the new rule that not one has been traced to dip tank milk. That statement should be answered and explained by some representative of the Health Board. It is urged by those opposing this new milk regulation that it will deprive the poor of the opportunity to buy milk in small quantities.

It is argued that the poor buy milk in small quantities simply because of the circumstances which govern them, the living conditions surrounding them and because they cannot afford the luxury of ice to preserve more than they actually use in the Summer time; that buying one, two or three cents' worth of milk is a common occurrence among the poor and they buy only what they can afford. Under this new regulation it will be argued that their quantity is bottled in advance and that the smallest size will be a pint.

Following out that line of argument it will be seen that, if the facts are true, the poor will be affected from two standpoints:

First cost; for the bottling of the milk, the extra delivery, the loss of bottles and the care of bottles must create an extra cost, which, in the end, must be paid for by the consumer; and this extra cost will immediately be met by an increase in the price of milk of from one and one-half to two cents a quart.

Second, health; as inability to purchase less than a pint, it will be argued, will create an element of danger, as it may happen that the poor will try to keep what they do not need for immediate use, and, without ice, it will become sour and may be given to the baby with fatal results.

It is estimated now that 88,400,000 quarts of milk are annually sold in the stores of Boston from the dip tank and that 47,000,000 quarts are sold in bottles. The charge has been made that this Health Board regulation is in favor of a Milk Trust. That charge should be met by the board.

It may be argued quite naturally that if the price and inconvenience of the store milk is increased, and, if the sealed bottle law becomes exclusively operative, the big milk contractors will have the dealers, the storekeepers and, through them, the consumers, at their mercy. The Mayor should see that that line of argument is properly answered, because an impression of that kind, if false, should not disturb the public mind.

The Board of Health, it is charged, has raised the cry of public health and too often it is declared the cry of public health covers a multitude of hidden commercial designs. Let us know fully the public health element of this case.

Between 1,400 and 1,500 babies die in Boston every Summer of diarrhoea, caused largely, so doctors and the Health Board say, by "loose" milk. Would the new regulation lower that death rate? Inspector Jordan says 90 per cent. of samples of contractors' bottled milk is good; 65 per cent. of milk wagon samples is good and only 25 to 30 per cent. of "loose" store milk has proved good. If such a state of affairs justifies the new regulation the Health Board should furnish its proof.

If, under the new rule, containers of less than a pint are to be used, if two cents worth of milk can be bought, if storekeepers will be compelled to keep milk in cleaner and sweeter condition, if the blame for impure milk can be placed where it belongs, and, if the new rule is not going to impose a heavy burden on the poor family, the public should know it.

In other words, the public wants all the facts on both sides and is entitled to know all the reasons in favor of the new regulation from the Health Board standpoint as well as all the facts and reasons in opposition to it.

BOSTON OPERA STOCK NOW ALL SUBSCRIBED

The entire stock of the Boston Opera Company, $400,000, has been subscribed for, it is announced by Charles Hayden, the treasurer of the company. Applications for season tickets are now being received from both the original and the new subscribers to the stock. The allotment of the seats will be made on April 28, and the last of the applications will be received the day before.

More AMERICANS are read in the homes in Boston than any other paper.

FLY CRUSADE ON IN EARNEST

Don't allow flies in your house.
Don't permit them near your food, especially milk.
Don't buy foodstuffs where flies are tolerated.
Don't allow your fruits and confections to be exposed to the swarms of flies.

These and a score of other "don'ts" are contained in a pamphlet which is being distributed by Mr. Edward Hatch, Jr., chairman of the American Civic Association's Fly Fighting Committee.

FOOT PRINTS CAUSE ARREST

LYNN, April 15.—Footprints in grease on the top of a barrel caused Judge Lummus of the Lynn Police Court to-day to hold William P. Shannon in $300 for the Grand Jury, on a charge of attempting to rob a restaurant at No. 39 Court square. Policeman Remsen found Shannon hiding under a window of the restaurant. He arrested him on suspicion. Remsen later found finger prints on the window sill and the footprints on the barrel. Shannon's shoes just fitted them.

ART MUSEUM BAN ON HATS

Women wearing large hats at future conferences at the Art Museum will be asked to remove them, to permit others to have a good view of the gallery. This was decided upon at a meeting of the trustees of the museum. Next week's conference will be addressed by Professor Thomas Whittemore of Tufts College on "The Column in Egyptian Architecture."

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

BOSTON PRICES OFF A TRIFLE

STATE STREET, April 15.—The stock market showed the result of speculative profit-taking this forenoon, although prices went off only fractionally. Opening Wall Street prices were irregular, but without feature.

Locally North Butte fell a couple of points on technical denials by the management of the rich drill core strikes reported yesterday. Admission was made, however, of a rich strike in undeveloped ground, and partial recovery in the price followed. The decline was more in the nature of a raid than a natural one.

Metal stocks maintained a firm tone in metal situation. Amalgamated held close to 76 and Utah Copper showed a point and over advance. Steel common did not quite reach yesterday's high level, although the 6 to 10 per cent. advance in wages by this corporation next month is believed to presage the certainty of a 5 per cent. dividend basis for the common stock. Approximately the advance in wages will amount to $9,000,000 per year.

Rains in the Southwest must necessarily have a good effect on crops. Reports of increased dividend rates for both Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific are revived again and it is said that both will go on a 7 per cent. dividend basis in May. Neither stock was benefitted by this report this forenoon.

Beet Sugar had a 1½ point advance this forenoon, but did not hold it all. Reading after fractional advance lopped off a point, while Wabash preferred showed exceptional strength.

Outside of the early decline in North Butte there was little of importance in the copper shares in this market. Both Lake and Indiana were firm. Butte Coalition broke 1½ points and was the only weak spot. The local curb market was dull with a steady list of prices.

GOOD WEATHER BULLS STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 15.—Stocks were active and steady at the opening to-day under leadership of Southern Pacific and Steel. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was the most active and strongest of the local issues. In the early trading some declines were noticed.

The market showed signs of buying from commission houses and the public interest was much larger than for a long time. Professionals are expressing doubt as to the genuineness of the advance. Strength of the market just now is due almost entirely to the good weather reports that are coming from the West.

London was irregular in the American department.

The curb was strong, with copper shares active. Chino, Union Mines, Miami and Consolidated Arizona were prominent in the trading. Intercontinental Rubber was also strong.

CENSUS MAN CALLS TODAY; TELL HIM ALL YOU KNOW; BOOST YOUR UNCLE SAM

An army of enumerators began today to find out how many children Uncle Sam has. The purpose of the census, which covers the whole country, is to find out just how many men, women and children live in the United States. Every ten years this national census takes place. It is important in commercial, political and social ways. It shows how towns and cities have grown, and the more population, generally speaking, the more prosperity. This census also determines how many representatives shall sit in the national Congress. The dominance of States there largely depends upon how many congressmen they elect.

But numbering the people is only a small task of the work the census men have to do. They have to ask all kinds of questions and the Government expects all the people to give truthful, cheerful answers.

The following is the list of the questions the census men may ask:

1. State whether person is head of the family or wife, son, daughter, boarder, lodger, servant, etc.
2. State whether male or female.
3. State whether white, black, mulatto, Chinese, Japanese or Indian.
4. Give age at last birthday. (If less than two years old give in 12ths of a year, as 13-12, 6-12. Write 0-12 if less than one month.)
5. State whether single, married, widowed or divorced.
6. If married, state whether present marriage is first, second or subsequent marriage.
7. Give number of years of present marriage. (Give completed years; thus if married three years and ten months, "three years.")
8. If person is married, widowed or divorced woman, give number of children she has had during her lifetime.
9. Give number of these children living on April 15, 1910.
10. Give State or Territory of the United States, or foreign country, in which person was born.
10a. If foreign born, give mother tongue of native language.
11. Give State or Territory of the United States, or foreign country, in which person's father was born.
11a. If person's father was foreign born give his mother tongue or native language.
12. Give State or Territory of the United States, or foreign country, in which person's mother was born.
12a. If person's mother was foreign born give her mother tongue or native language.
13. If foreign born give year in which person first came to the United States.
14. If foreign-born man over twenty-one, state whether he is (1) an alien, or (2) has taken out first papers, or (3) is fully naturalized.
15. State whether person is able to speak English.
16. If unable to speak English give native language or mother tongue.
17. Give trade or profession of, or particular kind of work done by person.
18. Give nature of industry, business or establishment in which person works.
19. If occupied, is person (1) an employer, or (2) a worker for salary or wages, or (3) working on own account.
20. If an employe (worker), state whether out of work on April 15, 1910.
21. If an employe (worker), give number of weeks out of work during year 1909.
22. State whether able to read English or any other language.
23. State whether able to write English or any other language.
24. State whether person has attended school at any time since September 1, 1909.
25. If a man over fifty, state whether he served in the Union army or navy.
26. If a man over fifty, state whether he served in the Confederate army or navy.

A blank will be left with every family and the head of it is the one to fill it out. It should be all ready for the enumerator when he calls for it. It is expected that this census will show that the population of the United States is now between 90,000,000 and 100,000,000. There were only about 3,000,000 in this country when the Revolutionary War began, 135 years ago. The United States have grown faster in population and wealth than any country in the world.

Twelve Killed by Prohibition

Here's One Plain Proof of the Effect of Driving Out Mild Stimulants and Dragging in Strong Poisons

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

The town of Westerly, in Rhode Island, is a PROHIBITION town. That town is as dry as the conscientious, well-meaning heart of the dryest abolitionist could possibly desire.

And because Westerly is a dry town and the citizens, put on a par with the Indians on the Indian reservation, cannot get the mild and relatively harmless stimulants, ELEVEN PEOPLE HAVE JUST BEEN MURDERED BY A PROHIBITION BRAND OF WHISKEY.

You cannot get light beer or light wine in Westerly, Rhode Island—that's against the law. And those that want to evade the law of course don't deal in beers or wines, which are bulky and difficult to hide. They deal in the vilest kinds of whiskeys and other highly alcoholic spirits easily concealed.

The druggists also in that blissful prohibition territory do a thriving "medicinal whiskey" business. And now one of these prohibition druggists has helped out the undertakers of the neighborhood by killing twelve citizens with one mixture.

This druggist of Westerly, while "mixing a medicinal whiskey" and mixing it good and strong to please the prohibition trade, used wood alcohol, that deadly poison, instead of the milder poison, the ordinary alcohol that goes into manufactured whiskey.

The news dispatches in their announcement of this interesting result of "total abstinence" say: "Thus far twelve persons have died suddenly within the past week, and it is known that at least nine of the number had partaken of the poisonous potion. An arrest is expected within a short time."

Twelve dead is enough to emphasize the common-sense facts concerning true temperance which we have often put before our readers, and which we shall put before them often in the future.

You cannot in a day or in a century change the habits of eighty millions of people.

You could not make vegetarians of all the people in this country by any number of laws, although by closing the butcher shops you might encourage the eating of decayed meat—just as in this prohibition town prohibition has forced upon the people the drinking of poisonous wood alcohol whiskey.

It isn't possible to stop absolutely the sale and the drinking of stimulants. Every sane man knows it. Every Congressman who voted to close up the canteens in the United States army—unless he was a fool—knew that he was casting a hypocritical vote. He knew that he was driving the soldiers from the use of beer under wholesome surroundings to the drinking of vile whiskey in dives.

The man who votes to make a city "dry" knows, if he knows anything, that he is really voting to stop the sale of the mild stimulants, and to force those that drink to drink poisonous spirits, easily concealed.

It ought not to be necessary to have many more doses of this "medicinal whiskey," many more deaths from wood alcohol, to make sane men realize that those that really want REAL TEMPERANCE should work to discourage in every possible legal way the sale of the whiskeys and other highly alcoholic poisons with high license. And at the same time encourage the sale, under good conditions, of the light beers and light wines universally consumed in Europe, AND WITHOUT DRUNKENNESS.

It would be interesting to know whether those that advocate prohibition deny that the poisoning of these twelve people is simply a conspicuous and violent and sensational instance of what happens millions of times on a less sensational scale when the well-meaning prohibitionists succeed in compelling men that WOULD take mild stimulants to take the highly alcoholic poisons instead.

A Great Political Transaction

To-day the census enumerators begin their rounds.

They will ask a good many more questions that has been the custom heretofore, including some of so personal a nature that there may be some misunderstanding and some reserve in answering.

But not a question will be asked that ought not to be answered. And the American takes the liberty of urging every citizen and householder to make a confident of Uncle Sam—in full assurance that good will come of it.

The fact is that the federal census is a much more important public function than is generally supposed.

In the first place, it is a constitutional obligation, laid not only upon the officers of government, but imposed by the people upon themselves in fundamental law.

In this manner the nation takes stock of its estate every ten years—and has done so ever since the first census of 1790.

The operation is more important to the country than is any periodical stock-taking by a business concern. It is rather to be compared with the elaborate work of the statistical department of a great corporation like the Pennsylvania Railroad—which is used as the basis of every new departure in the business of the road.

If the statistical department of the general government were educed to a science and made exhaustive in its details nine-tenths of the political and social questions that agitate the country could be settled on a basis of absolute fact.

With the growth and improvement of statistics law becomes less arbitrary and experimental—its principles tend to be demonstrable and exact.

Thus the taking of the census is an action for the discovery of the true basis of law. And every individual in the community should do his separate part for the perfecting of the investigation.

The director of the thirteenth census is Dr. E. Dana Durand. He has the assistance of eminent specialists. And his whole force of supervisors, enumerators and other employes number seventy thousand.

The census force in 1880 was 33,000. It was only 5,300 in 1900.

For many months the director has been making his preparations with admirable precision and on the grandest scale.

To-day this disciplined army goes forth to conquer a great realm of political science.

Let us all turn in heartily and help.

HOW TO RETAIN YOUR HUSBAND'S LOVE

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

THE bride who marries the man she loves — the man who has sought with ardor—rarely thinks that a time may come when she will not be able to attract him with no effort; when he will not hurry through his tasks and duties in order to be at her side as soon as possible; when, instead of being the one object of his tender and solicitous care, she may be incapable of keeping him contented in her society for a single evening in the week.

But such situations evolve all too frequently out of the most romantic and ardent love marriages.

When the wife does face such a tragic problem, she rarely blames herself for it, but rather magnifies her own virtues and good qualities and sits wondering why her husband has proven so unappreciative, and why he has ceased to love her as of old.

However confident a woman may be of her hold upon the affections of the man she marries, she will be wise to augment her attractions instead of permitting them to wane with the years.

How to Hold a Husband

If she is a good housekeeper, economical and prudent; if she has that first of all household virtues, order; if she is fair to look upon; if she is accomplished and entertaining, instead of permitting any of these qualities to diminish or any one of them to absorb the others, let her add new ones and burnish up the old.

No man is satisfied, as time passes and months of marriage settle into years, with the merely beautiful wife. He is not satisfied with the merely accomplished wife, nor with the merely good housekeeper.

Man is a composite animal, and he wants a composite woman for a companion.

He has been known to desert the beautiful, virtuous, good, but dull home-keeping wife for the plain woman who knew how to amuse and entertain.

First and foremost a man must be amused.

That was a wise girl who, fond of dancing, and receptions, and theatres, married a man considerably her senior—who was devoted to outdoor sports, hating indoor functions—and straightway set herself the task of learning every game and sport dear to her husband, and made herself a comrade for him in his recreations. Being a man with a heart, and a sense of fair play, it resulted in his escorting her to indoor festivities frequently enough to make her happy; and so their lives have become in reality one in all their various pleasures and interests.

Whatever accomplishments a woman acquires, as she goes along in life she will find herself repaid in good interest as youth wanes. Youth makes companionship for itself without effort, but maturity and age must have "cards of admission."

The middle-aged woman who enjoys games, who can take part in sports, who can sing or play some instrument well, who speaks some language beside her own—such a woman will never sit alone and neglected as time goes on, even if the one on whom she placed her hopes of permanent companionship fails her.

Will Always Find Comrades

She will always find comrades and friends and always be popular. And if a woman is not happy, she is, at least, much less miserable if she is popular.

Improve yourself, dear young wife; use an hour every day to make yourself more accomplished and useful in the world.

Take up some study, learn a language, play, sing, dance, golf, tennis, swim, and meanwhile take care of your complexion. Do not allow yourself to grow fat and shapeless, or sallow and thin.

Keep yourself in good form and adapt the prevailing styles of dress and hair coiffure to suit your own type. Do not follow fashion blindly; but do not let yourself grow old-fashioned and out of date.

Keep your home in perfect order; supply your table with healthful and properly prepared food. Be agreeable and amiable, so that under no conditions can your husband say he found more comfort, or more cheer elsewhere than at home.

But do not become merely a housekeeper.

If you look about the world you will see that such women are rarely appreciated by the men for whom they sacrifice all the ambitions and vanities of woman.

It will surprise you once you undertake to accomplish some certain thing, to find how rapidly you can make progress by giving one hour a day to the task. And one hour a day is so often frittered away in mere dawdling by every woman who has no special object outside of her regular home duties.

Give Up One Hour a Day

In a year's time you can do wonders, in any one chosen line of study, by giving an hour a day to it.

And the next year you can take up another line of achievement.

But do not begin it unless you are determined to keep at it.

Every time we begin a study and drop it, we weaken our character more than if we did not begin at all.

But if you do keep on, you will find your time given to this pursuit paying you a large interest as years go by.

And one of the best things it will give you is the ability to keep your interest in life and to enjoy the world, and to make people enjoy your society after youth wanes.

Begin some new study to-day.

Sing and Laugh!

"Sing and laugh and keep on a keepin' on."—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon to Attleboro Pierian Club.

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK

WHEN the trouble-clouds loom dark
Sing and laugh.
When the sunshine calls the lark,
Sing and laugh.
This brief recipe I urge
Bitterness from life to purge,
Even if you must insurge,
Sing and laugh!

If your friends grow cold and cross,
Sing and laugh.
If your gold becomes cheap dross,
Sing and laugh.
When your heart is light and pure,
All things else you may endure;
Happiness will be secure;
Sing and laugh!

While your voice may lack in charm,
Sing and laugh.
Surely it can do no harm;
Sing and laugh.
When with politics I'm through
And to life's hopes said adieu,
My friendly cigar I shall woo
And sing and laugh!

The Make-Work Theory

By MILO HASTINGS

WE are pretty well agreed about the man who makes and hoards great wealth. But what of the man who makes great wealth and spends it again? Has he robbed the consuming public as a whole, has he robbed one man to pay another or is he the heart of our commercial life that keeps the golden fluid flowing for the benefit of all?

Let us take an example. Suppose the Government should turn the postal service over to a private corporation which should raise the price of letter postage to three cents and thereby extort from the letter writing public $50,000,000 a year.

The members of the Postal Trust would spend this money; they would build palaces on the Potomac, buy automobiles, establish game preserves, purchase works of art. This would make work for masons, gamekeepers, machinists, chauffeurs, artists. The money would all go back into the hands of such workers, and from them to other workers.

The people, as distinct from the members of the Postal Trust, would have as much money as before, but in the assumption that they would have as much wealth lies the error of the "make-work" theory.

Every legitimate worker is benefiting society in two ways. First, by making his own livelihood and having money to spend as a consumer, thus bidding up the price of the product of other men's labor. Second, as a producer of something other men use, his contribution to production tending to lower the price of a product which other men must buy.

Our magnates of the Postal Trust would take money from circulation and put it back. This would have no effect on the stringency of currency. As consumers they would create a demand for labor, but they would give wealth to society either in the making or the spending of their extorted money. They would help to keep up the price of labor, but would do nothing to lower the price of what labor must buy, and hence would perform only half their normal economic function.

The removal of masons from work upon modest houses to build vainglorious castles on the Potomac would increase cost of all other houses. The ordering of high-priced automobiles would decrease the manufacturer's output of lower-priced cars which the masons might have bought. The establishment of game preserves would withdraw from use farm land that might have produced vegetables to feed the mason and machinist. The game-keepers who raise golden pheasants for shooting would otherwise have raised chickens for market. The artist who would frescoe the roof of the Postal Trust magnate's barn might have painted the game-keeper's portrait—and so it would go throughout the chain of inter-dependent industry.

Classified as to the way they get their money, the genus millionaire includes a very great number of species, but grouped according to what they do with it, millionaires fall readily into three classes:

First. Accumulators, formerly called misers—those who keep their wealth, add the earnings to the capital and gloat over its increase.

Second. Spenders—those who, after securing their wealth from the working public by various legal and illegal methods, offer the public the privilege of working to earn it back.

Third. Philanthropists—those who give the wealth they secure from the public back to the public in the shape of hymn books, libraries, medical laboratories or other forms which they (the philanthropists) think the public needs.

The miser who hoards money in a strong-box destroys credit and confidence. He produces a chill of commercial ardor which in its acute stages is called a panic. But freedom from the sin of depleting the currency in no wise alters the fact that the spending of excessive wealth by one man means the withdrawal from the many of the privilege of spending that amount of wealth.

Whether it is all right or all wrong depends on our viewpoint; whether we think a few private palaces with old masters are better than many homes with pastel portraits, or a great privately endowed university better than a cent reduction on the price of kerosene.

It is all to be spent somewhere some time, somehow. The only question is who shall say when and where and how?
